OUR introduction to Duke is an autumn one, whether for the first year or the fourth. First fall impressions are tranquil; colors are of a southern season, mellow reds and oranges accented by the glint of an afternoon sun. We walk along leafy paths quiet behind the chapel or on open quadrangles beneath a blaze of trees. There is a mood of calm, a visual peace, in afternoon shadows on the lawn or the chapel in new perspective. As the year begins, momentum increases — a motorcycle speeds into blurring color. . . .

Coexistent with the tranquil aspect of Duke is a dynamic activity of mind and senses, symbolized by the convocation procession, a technicolor array of learning. We who do not yet own scarlet or blue hoods join others who do; we may in time gain our own. In the meantime we gather armloads of fundamental theory, for concentrated effort in night hours or hurried review before classes. In the midst of activity we stop, suspended for a moment among green leaves to listen to the music of a band concert. Notes drift through cool air as we absorb sounds and colors in anticipation of a new awareness to come.

Escape into a crowd can give welcome respite from intense brainwork. A rising bonfire calls and hypnotizes; some dance, some watch, as orange flames outline blackened figures in the night, and concern for the morning's test fades conveniently. We like being with a crowd; people on either side may be familiar or unknown, yet we feel a something intangible shared—a desire of victory—the comfort of another voice—eyes reflecting the same flames. A crowd is only a group of people—or is it more? As sun brightens tops of heads in the bleachers we grasp blue and white pennants—and afterwards leave behind prosaic reminders that we were here.

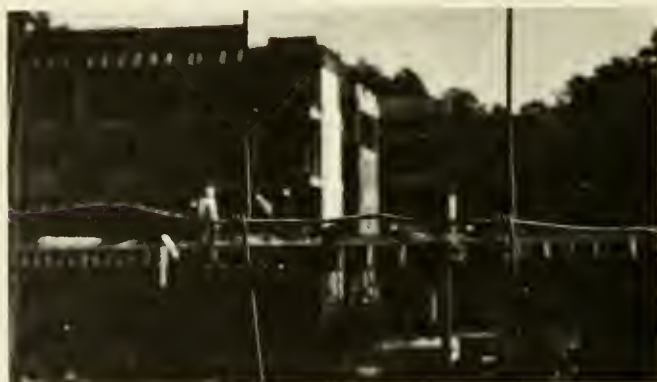

We learn the terms: West is Gothic, East is Georgian. Perhaps it is the consistency in architectural style which lends each campus an air of unity and a distinctiveness of its own. Yet in our walks, our insistence on traveling the shortest distance between two points and wearing paths across the quad, the architecture around us becomes a familiarity unnoticed. Now and then a new viewpoint can again waken us to the sharp outlines of a Gothic tower, the tranquillity of an East Campus facade.

$102,876,000: an addition to the Main Library, more than doubling its present capacity; a Chemistry Building, Arts Center, a phytotron, an Emperor Tandem Accelerator, renovation of classrooms; a Woman's College dormitory, and Student Center, two men's dormitories; a College of Engineering Building, Medical Center teaching unit, and new hospital; expansion of the Divinity School and Marine Laboratory; roads, parking lots, heating plants, renovations, more buildings. "Our objective is to help Duke University serve the South and the nation, as well as any university can, in every field which concerns us." (Dr. Knight).

This is the Fifth Decade Program. Statistics and figures are overwhelming; "artists' conceptions" seem unreal and strange. It is unlikely that many of us will be here at the end of the fifth decade to view the final results and witness the inevitable inception of the Sixth Decade. Yet as we are here now, we are witnesses of growth in visible process; sounds of machinery and electric tools disturb an afternoon calm; the pit behind the library, the rising structure of pre-fab Gothic behind Wannamaker, the purchase of land along Myrtle (Campus) Drive remind us that Duke is not stagnant, but is responding to the needs of the community, the South, the nation.

East is east, west is west, and in a co-ordinate college system we sometimes doubt the meeting of true minds or anything else. But with mixed classes and extra-curricular activities, we find association with the opposite sex daily, and we enter upon friendships and intellectual relations as well as romances. As a controversial visitor to the campus remarked, it is not infrequent that someone manages to broach the 1.1 mile bundling board known as Myrtle Drive; we make out all right.

Yes, there is a social life at Duke, as we discover. Within the organized framework of “Weekends” and cabin parties there is room for fun, humor, creativity, relaxation. We compose skits, perform in spotlights, build elaborate Homecoming displays—and carry our own choice of sustenance to sunny outdoor concerts.

A picnic lunch, party packs, fried chicken . . . we discard worries and shoes to enjoy ourselves, a moment, or the company of others. When weekends are over, the chicken wire and crepe paper creations gone, we return to the week-day pursuits—with an afternoon off now and then for carefree excursions, an open-air ride, cool sunglasses, dates, refreshment.

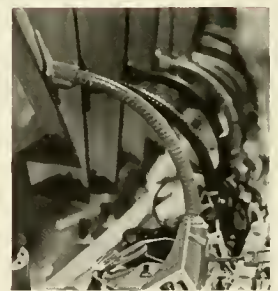

Duke athletic events draw crowds whose enthusiasm merits national publicity; and the athletically inclined can find joy in victory or intense effort in the attempt, in both major and minor sports—or even in a P.E. class.

Bus stop flyers may be a genre of advertising unique to Duke—but they succeed in disseminating information of campus activities, and we respond, braving Duke's solution to the mobility problem to take a bus. On good days we make it to a window seat for a few minutes of distracted thought and unconcerned gazing.

Daily existence somehow seems to revolve around the dope shop, post office, and union, where we can fill various needs and communicate with the outside world. Shall we stop for Bazooka, buy a lamp or a mechanical coke? If these alternatives are rejected, and the post office box is painfully vacant no matter how scrutinizingly we peer, we can still turn to a little mischief under the watchful eye of the campus guardians and ignore a trash can—or paint the bridge with an all-purpose sign where the apostrophe makes the difference.

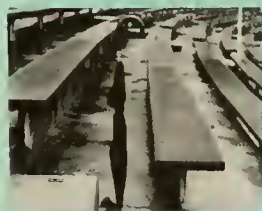

Classes and labs may lose importance in our perspective now and then as we fall into the habit of considering them daily, repetitive tasks; but in clear moments we realize they are the real center of our education. Chemicals drip into an enamel receptacle as sure hands guide the measured flow. And in the lecture hall minds receive another flow—of knowledge—hands, glasses, pens to the mouth somehow facilitating our concentration. Bent head, crooked elbow, crossed knee signify some mechanism of thought in high gear, leading to a discovery in anatomical exploration or a sudden clarity of understanding in French class.

Sometimes we retreat for shelter to buildings, archways, umbrellas; but at other times, feeling dramatically romantic, we venture into night, rain, snow, moonlight. We wait for snow, tray-sliding, frozen fountains, snow quad-ball — for night, darkness, moons, walks—for rain, puddles, reflections. Yet, for extended lengths of time we cannot match the stoicism of Washington Duke; cursing flooded sidewalks or slushy roads, we await a change. . . .

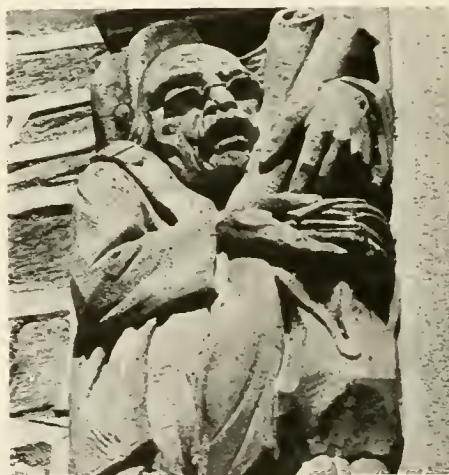

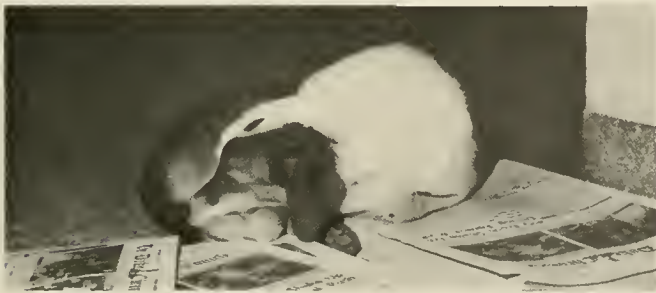

Seasons arrive at Duke as they do elsewhere; we succumb to the spring air, sunlight, and shadows, and with effort refrain from picking flowers. Some yield to the call of the frisbee and nurture a tan at the same time—the less industrious search out a sunny, grassy spot beyond the chains to let young fancies wander. Again we are aware of color, as light falls on red, pink, yellow, and shadows accent a bright sweater, a mottled tree trunk. The seasonal fever takes us to the Eno and more faraway places for vacation. Identifying ourselves with Thoreau and feeling very much reborn, we awake and reorganize, emerging from behind doors into a full daylight.

We try for the “overall view,” the fullness of perspective which we hope can be gained here and cultivated long after we leave. But we do not belittle the value of minutes, inches, drops—small parts and isolated episodes of our lives. There is a function of trivia, if it is only to attract and focus our attention in new places. We discover a gargoyle in a hidden corner of the Gothic complex (frustrated Learning in a fetal position?) or catch a glimpse of a face through windows. We are fascinated by irreverences, and discover in ourselves an iconoclastic tendency; perhaps we enjoy questioning our own importance.

As Duke expands physically, our interests expand beyond the university itself, for we are not unconcerned members of a strictly isolated community. There has always been talk of "contributing," but now we face the action, the real movement beyond the Duke walls. We donate blood, tutor an Edgmont child, serve on work projects in Durham, or observe a fantastic night rally, keeping cameras well-hidden. On the campus there is growing concern for employees' working conditions—we try to see beyond our own spheres, finding an aspect of education that is outside of the classroom.

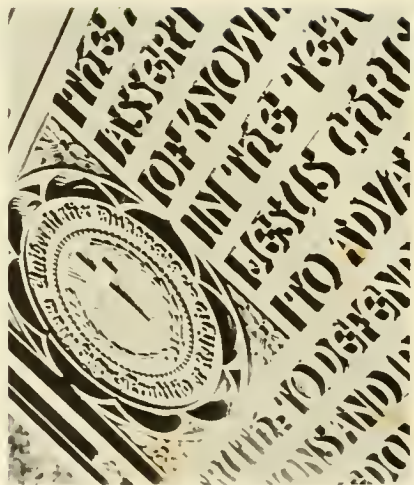

This June day means to some of us a significant piece of paper; it may mean more to others, but that significance and that meaning defy definition. We generalize, with something behind us and something before us—we can now speak complacently of our “undergraduate days,” but not too complacently; we can look ahead beyond the appointments office confidently, but not too confidently. Despite our desire to go out in a burst of glory, nostalgia, and hope, we feel somehow that Duke has not been simply a means to this end. Perhaps there must be a distance of time and space between us and this day before we can define with precision its meaning. ■

ADMINISTRATION

DOUGLAS MAITLAND KNIGHT, PRESIDENT

. . . This is the central dynamism of the university at its best: we pursue our separate ways as we must, but in clear and constant recognition of our dependence on one another. . . . The differences, the apartness, and yet the mutual need show themselves best in the relationship of individuals, of people who are mature enough, sophisticated enough to know that we grow, we discover ourselves, and we fulfill our own powers, our own talents through our encounter with those who tell us what we are by teaching us to respect and even to understand the ideas we cannot accept and the people we cannot be. This is the community of the university. . . .

Dr. Knight outlined the following four-part program: 1) the campaign itself which will help realize goals already set, 2) a plan and concept of the physical university conceived as a whole, 3) a sense of substantial progress toward these goals and a general, appropriate level of support for the university, 4) a continuing study and defining of educational purposes.

. . . At the very least we shall be creating a coherent pattern and we shall be able to keep the integrity and the distinction of both ends of the campus. . . . Our emphasis is on the whole university. . . .

We develop in strength only if we have faith in our own past and our own present and our own destiny. We expect great distinction of ourselves as a university. We've talked about it so much that it's a little threadbare, but we honestly expect it. . . .

We will find ourselves if we accept fully and gratefully the fact that our roots are precisely here, . . . in one bright, punctual spot. We will accept the fact that our origin is unique and our opportunity, our fantastic opportunity, is the direct result of where we are and what we are.

Excerpts from Convocation Address by Dr. Knight, September 23, 1965.

UNIVERSITY TRUSTEES

Functioning as the legislative organ of the university administration, the thirty-six member Board of Trustees meets three times a year. Three strong committees organize the Board's work: the University Committee, the Committee on Institutional Advancement, and the Committee on Buildings and Grounds. A new auxiliary fund-raising committee was created in 1965 as part of a campaign designed to attain many long-standing goals of the university.

In addition, the Executive Committee is a more inclusive one, concerned with all matters relating to Duke; its plans are subject to the Board's approval. Most of the seven members are elected by the Board itself; ex-officio members are the Chairman of the Board of Trustees and several university administrators.

"... And I should like to pay a particular tribute to the Board of Trustees. They have, in the past few years, assumed their proper place as an active policy-making group in many matters that deeply affect us. And they are taking a lead in defining the needs of the university and assuming the responsibility for seeing that they are met. . . . Without a truly responsible Board of Trustees, no university can hope to be a place of great stature."

PHI BETA KAPPA

Phi Beta Kappa, founded on December 5, 1776, at the College of William and Mary, is the oldest honorary scholastic society in the United States. There are now 177 local chapters. The Duke chapter was chartered in 1919. Phi Beta Kappa's emphasis is on the liberal arts and sciences, and it leaves to other organizations the recognition of academic success in other fields. Methods of election by the Duke chapter have recently been revised, so that no more than eleven percent of the members of any given graduating class are eligible for election, plus a very limited number of juniors. Elections are made in October, February, and during Commencement Week. At the commencement meeting a limited number of Ph.D. candidates are also elected.

WHO'S WHO

Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges is an annual publication designed to recognize those college seniors across the nation who have simultaneously excelled in their academic fields and served their University.

The number of persons selected by each University is determined by the publication and is based on a percentage of the school's enrollment. The Deans of Staff of Trinity College and the College of Engineering jointly make their selections based on nominations submitted by a committee composed of campus leaders. Separate selections are made by the Woman's College and the Nursing School by a similar procedure with more emphasis placed on the student committee's decision.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

Omicron Delta Kappa, National Leadership Honor Society for College Men, recognizes men who have attained a high standard of efficiency in collegiate activities and brings together the most representative men in all phases of college life. O.D.K. also unites members of the faculty and student body on a basis of mutual interest and understanding.

Candidates for the society are elected by the members in the fall and spring. Based on merit in scholarship, athletics, student government, social and religious affairs, publications, and the arts, membership is awarded to junior and senior men, and occasionally to graduate students, faculty, and the administration.

PHI KAPPA DELTA

Phi Kappa Delta, from its founding twenty-two years ago by the members of Omicron Delta Kappa, has sought to recognize representatives from various campus activities who have excelled in scholarship, leadership, and service.

The basic requirements for membership in Phi Kappa Delta are a quality point ratio greater than the women's over-all average, a leadership position in at least one campus organization, and active membership in several other campus organizations.

This year, Phi Kappa Delta sponsored dinners, programs to familiarize the group with campus organizations, and discussions with members of the faculty and administration.

SANDALS

Sandals, an auxiliary of the WSGA, recognizes twenty rising sophomore girls during the spring semester. Chosen by former members and the House Councils of East Campus dorms, Sandals must display potential leadership, intellectual curiosity, and service to the university.

Sandals help with Freshman Week, give tours on East and West Campuses, usher at the MSGA Convention and East Campus assemblies, hold seasonal parties at the Murdock School in Butner, and participate in seminars with visiting scholars, deans, and house counselors. Through the proceeds from their various fund-raising projects, members of the honorary provide for the Sandals Scholarship, awarded annually to an outstanding rising sophomore.

BETA OMEGA SIGMA

Once devoted to heckling freshmen, Beta Omega Sigma, after forty-eight years of development, now recognizes rising sophomore men who demonstrate exceptional leadership, scholarship, and service to the University. The national honorary attempts to arouse student interest in campus affairs and to develop individual responsibility and initiative.

Beta Omega Sigma members act as representatives of the University and are prepared to serve when called upon by either the Administration or the Men's Student Government Association. They assist in the election and coronation of the Homecoming Queen and also serve as University representatives to welcome returning alumni and visiting educators.

IVY

Since its establishment twenty-eight years ago, Ivy has recognized and encouraged excellence in scholarship among freshmen women. Girls who obtain a 3.5 average for the first semester or for the entire year are tapped for membership in the spring of their freshman year or the fall of their sophomore year.

This fall, as in the past, Ivy awarded a scholarship trophy to the woman's dorm with the highest quality point ratio for the preceding year. Other activities included the annual dinner for freshman women obtaining 3.0 averages for the first semester, a series of dinners at which various professors spoke, and the donation of an appropriate gift to the University.

PHI ETA SIGMA

Since its founding in 1924, Phi Eta Sigma has continued to recognize and encourage scholastic excellence by honoring those sophomore men who have demonstrated superior academic ability. To be eligible for membership, a student must obtain a 3.5 quality point ratio for the first semester of his freshman year or a 3.5 average for his entire freshman year.

Each year, as an aid to undergraduate students, the honorary publishes a list of tutors—both student and professional. Also, as a means of promoting academic achievement among students, Phi Eta Sigma and Ivy, its East Campus counterpart, sponsor an annual banquet honoring freshmen who have earned a “B” average at mid-semester.

ORDER OF ST. PATRICK

In 1945 the Order of St. Patrick was established on the Duke campus as a means for recognizing those members of the College of Engineering who demonstrate definite leadership ability. A point system, which considers achievement both in the classroom and laboratory and in the activities programs of the college, has always been the means by which members are selected.

As a secret society, the Order of St. Patrick does not reveal a complete list of its activities. The stated purposes of the organization, however, are to inspire pride in the College of Engineering, to stimulate interest and participation in the extracurricular activities of the college, and to improve faculty-student relationships within the college.

JAMES B. DUKE PROFESSORS

Since a great university must have an active, distinguished faculty, Duke recognizes faculty members of outstanding ability by providing suitable salaries and working conditions. The university is also concerned with strengthening the faculty by attracting men who have established their reputations at other institutions. To help achieve these two goals, the Duke Endowment finances the appointment of James B. Duke Professors. Other foundations and interested individuals provide funds for additional distinguished Professorships, named in honor of prominent leaders and benefactors of the University.

FOOTBALL

After a dismal end to an impressive beginning in the 1964 season, the 1965 Blue Devil squad was picked by the experts to finish second behind Maryland in the ACC football race. Twenty lettermen were returning, and, despite the loss of such standouts as Mike Curtis and Dan Lonon, an excellent freshman team had produced several sophomore hopefuls.

The first test was Virginia, a contender for the ACC crown and a strong passing team. The Cavaliers ran wild between the 20 yard lines, gaining 322 total yards to Duke's 319; but when they moved into the shadow of the goal posts, the Devil defense tightened and held. Sophomores Andy Beath, a defensive back who intercepted two passes, and Jake Devonshire, a left halfback who ran 55 yards for a Duke score, were outstanding. Rod Stewart and Dave Dunaway gave a warning of things to come as they averaged 49.6 yards for six punts, and Scotty Glacken shattered the Duke career passing record in the 21-7 victory.

Duke, basically a passing team last season with quarterback Glacken, astounded the fans with a crushing ground game against South Carolina. Soph Jay Calabrese, a fullback who may rank with Duke's greatest, teamed with Devonshire to grind out 276 rushing yards in the Devils' 20-15 thriller over the Gamecocks. Carolina managed to stay in the game only through three Duke fumbles, one of which led to a touchdown.

Next, the Devils traveled to Dallas, Texas, for a night game against Rice. A lethal combination of Scotty Glacken's passing and a potent rushing game carried the Blue to a 41-21 rout. But the night was not completely successful, as center Mike Murphy and halfback Devonshire were put out for the season with injuries.

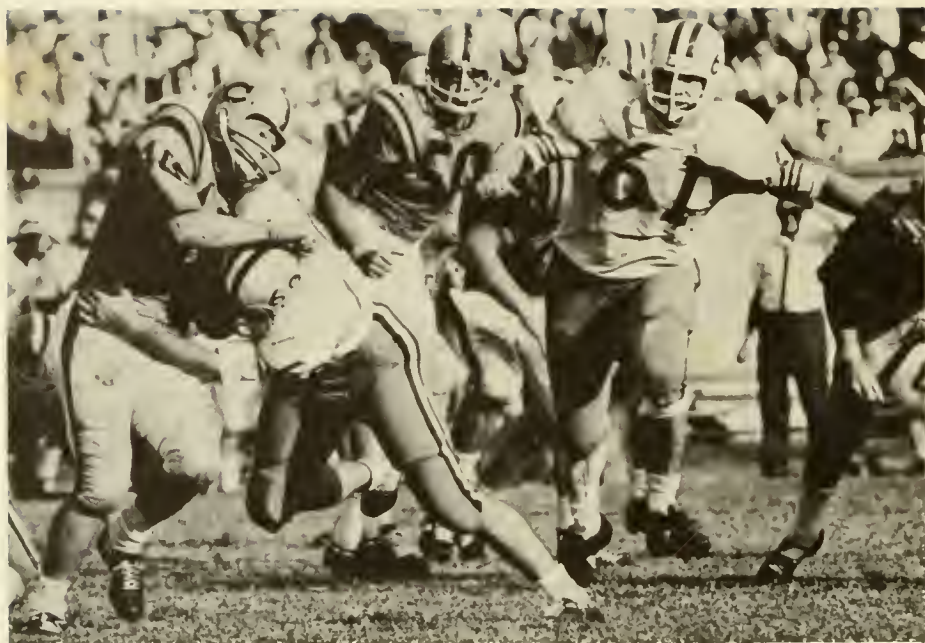

In their first game before the home fans, the Devils edged Pitt in a 21-13 thriller, with linebackers Bob Matheson and John Carlo pouncing on a fumble to kill a Panther drive in the waning minutes of the game. Duke, utilizing a passing game in its versatile offense, was led by Glacken, who threw for one TD and picked up another on a keeper. Defensive ends Roger Hayes and Bruce Wiesley took turns dumping Pitt quarterback Ken Lucas for losses to set up the Devils' second touchdown and then combined on a tackle and fumble recovery which paved the way for the third.

The Devils, riding a four game winning streak, took on a tough Clemson squad in their second straight home appearance. The Dukes gave up six fumbles to the hard hitting Tiger defense, three inside the Clemson twelve on early downs, and lost in a baseball score of 3-2. In the second quarter, middle guard Bob Foyle blocked a Clemson punt in the end zone for a safety, and the Devils left the field at halftime leading 2-0. Clemson came back early in the third quarter with a field goal, set up by a Duke fumble on the Duke 35. The Devils had one last chance, but bobbled it, as a fourth period drive was halted by a fumble on the Clemson 11 with 78 seconds of playing time remaining.

Duke, still stinging from the 3-2 defeat at the hands of Clemson, traveled to Champaign, Illinois, for an encounter with the Big Ten. It proved to be a costly one, as the Devils lost sensational quarterback Glacken for the season from a knee injury. Junior Todd Orvald took over the signal calling and proved himself a cool performer, but the Devils were killed by three fumbles and three interceptions in a difficult 25 mile per hour wind. The Duke defensive unit held Illinois All-America fullback Jim Grabowski to 60 yards in 16 carries, but other Illini backs piled up substantial yardage in the 28-14 Duke defeat.

The Duke injury list was sizable as the Devils invaded Grant Field in Atlanta to take on perennial rival Georgia Tech. Linebacker John Carlo, defensive back John Lucas, center Mike Murphy, Devonshire and Glacken were benched for the season, but their replacements were able to take up the slack. However, a tough defensive line and an offense that ran the Techmen ragged were not enough to stop the sensational left-handed passing of future All-America Kim King. Duke's versatile offense piled up 193 rushing and 237 passing yards in a 35-23 losing effort.

Duke met a fired up State team at old Riddick stadium and barely escaped with the worst beating the Devils have received from the Wolfpack in the history of the series. The Red Raiders stymied the Dukes, 21-0, with a fierce defensive line, which colared Orvald for killing losses on crucial downs, and a quick defensive backfield, which intercepted three Orvald passes. Duke's offense was bottled up completely for almost three quarters and penetrated State territory for the first time in the waning minutes of the third period.

Riding a four game losing streak, the Blue came home to stay after four road games, and delighted the fans with a 40-7 rout of Wake Forest. It was the Devils' finest defensive effort in nine games, as linebacker Bob Matheson, tackles Chuck Stavins and Earl Yates, and end Roger Hayes led a solid front line that held the Deacons to 95 yards on the ground. Quarterback Orvald had a remarkable success working with halfback passes to Sonny Odom and Frank Ryan, an impressive sophomore, and the Wake line was battered by Calabrese's rushing.

A mixture of Murray strategy and team desire crushed the Tarheels in the best and most satisfying win of the season. Altering his whole offensive concept, Coach Murray shifted the emphasis from running to passing and switched to double swing ends to burden the Tarheel defensive secondary. The Tarheel safeties were virtually unable to double cover Duke's two great swing ends, Chuck Drulis and Dave Dunaway, and they accounted for much of the Devils' passing yardage. Orvald, a "fill-in" quarterback for three weeks, became a star in his own right, completing 16 of 26 passes for 197 yards and leading an aroused Duke eleven to an astonishing 37-7 victory. Matheson was a defensive giant, making savage tackles and intercepting a Danny Talbott pass, which he ran back 35 yards for a TD. Center Bucky Fondren, guard John McNabb, and tackle Bill Jones opened gaping holes in the tough Carolina line for Calabrese, Ryan, Odom, and Ken Chatham, as they pounded the Tarheels for yardage. It was a great game for Duke fans, who for two previous years had left the field in defeat.

With this victory the season ended, a season which witnessed outstanding play from veterans and maturing rookies alike. Jay Calabrese, Bill Jones, Bob Matheson, John McNabb, and Chuck Stavins were named to the all-ACC squad, and the Devils shared the conference championship with South Carolina.

When Bill Murray resigned after the Duke-Carolina football game, Duke lost not only a highly successful coach but also a gentleman, who placed sportsmanship and fair play above all else. Murray began his 35 year career at Children's Home, then moved to the University of Delaware. In 1950 he came to Duke with a 120-26-5 record, and by 1955 he had forged a team which crushed Nebraska in the Orange Bowl. Three years later, Duke lost to a great Oklahoma squad in another Orange Bowl game, and in 1961 the Blue Devils beat Arkansas, 7-6, in a Cotton Bowl thriller. During his fifteen year stay here, Coach Murray led the Dukes to five conference titles and three co-championships, with a conference record of 54-15-2 and an overall mark of 93-51-9. Murray loved coaching because he loved football, but more because he loved working with what he called "my boys." With them, he established himself as one of Duke's most respected coaches.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

Suffering their first losing season in several years, the Duke freshman football team stumbled to a 1-4 record for 1965 gridiron play. Despite the dismal season, however, the Blue Imps were sparked by fine individual performances as Coach Bob Cox produced some outstanding varsity prospects.

The Blue Imps received their first setback from a strong Clemson eleven in the season opener. The fine play of quarterback Tom Edens, backs Dixie Abdella and Buzz Wisdom, and tackle Bill Furse were not enough as Clemson pulled out a close one, 16-12. The Frosh gained their only win against V. P. I., 13-7, with a tough defense led by Gene DeBolt and Carl Gersbach and the rushing of half-back Henley Carter. Rebounding to near-victory after a stunning 31-0 defeat by North Carolina, the Imps were edged by Wake Forest, 23-20, on a last minute first half field goal. In the final contest, N. C. State scored 21 points in the first three minutes to crush the Devil defense and hand Duke a 42-20 loss.

BASKETBALL

Three words describe the 1965-66 Blue Devils: talent, poise, and heart—essential components of a championship club. The skill of the Devils was obvious throughout the season, but raw skill is not enough to make a great team. The two intangibles must also be present for a winning combination. The thrilling comebacks of the Blue Devils, their never-say-die play, this brought the Dukes through a tough schedule to one of their most successful seasons.

The third-ranked Devils opened with a 112-79 rout of VPI. The Dukes, looking ragged in the first seven minutes, picked up steam behind the shooting and ball handling of Bob Verga, Jack Marin, and Captain Steve Vacendak, and by halftime held a 61-30 edge over the Gobblers. Big Mike Lewis, playing in his first varsity game, fulfilled all hopes as he grabbed nine rebounds and fourteen points. The 83-68 victory over Clemson was a disappointment, however, as Duke was guilty of 21 turnovers in a game with too much individualism and not enough team play.

Just four days before the long awaited UCLA contest, the Dukes were handed a 73-71 loss by a surprising South Carolina squad. Bob Riedy's tying shot was short with 2 seconds left, and the Devils left the court amid shouts of "We're no. 1" from the rabid Gamecock fans.

Top-ranked UCLA and their fabled full court press invaded North Carolina for back to back duels at Durham and Charlotte, and left empty handed after consecutive 82-66 and 94-75 drubbings. The press was smashed, and the keys were balanced teamwork and rebounding. Verga, Marin, and Vacendak racked up 38, 43, 24 points respectively in the two contests, while Lewis and Riedy crushed the Bruins off the boards. The highly touted Uclans had been outshot, outhustled, outdefended, and outrebounded, and the Blue grabbed first place in the AP and UPI cage polls. The Devils affirmed their number one national ranking by blasting Furman, 102-67, and followed up with a 75-72 squeaker over Virginia.

Before Christmas, the Blue Devils traveled to Ann Arbor to meet Cazzie Russell and the third-ranked Michigan Wolverines. The Dukes wiped out a ten point deficit in the last four minutes, and Vacendak put the Devils in front, 85-83, with a free throw at the nine second mark. Michigan scored with one second remaining, forcing an overtime, but it was all Duke in the extra period, as Verga canned nine of his 27 points to lead the Devils to a 100-93 victory.

A little rusty after a ten-day layoff, the Dukes still crushed Notre Dame, 95-73, and the next night followed with a decisive 92-76 win over Wake Forest. Verga led the way in both games with key baskets, steals, and assists. Back home after four tough road contests, the Blue gave the fans a game to remember, polishing off Penn State, 83-58. With a tenacious man-for-man defense, the brilliant floor leadership of Vacendak, and the hot shooting of Marin, who collected 25 points, and Lewis, who canned 20, the Devils again proved their number one status.

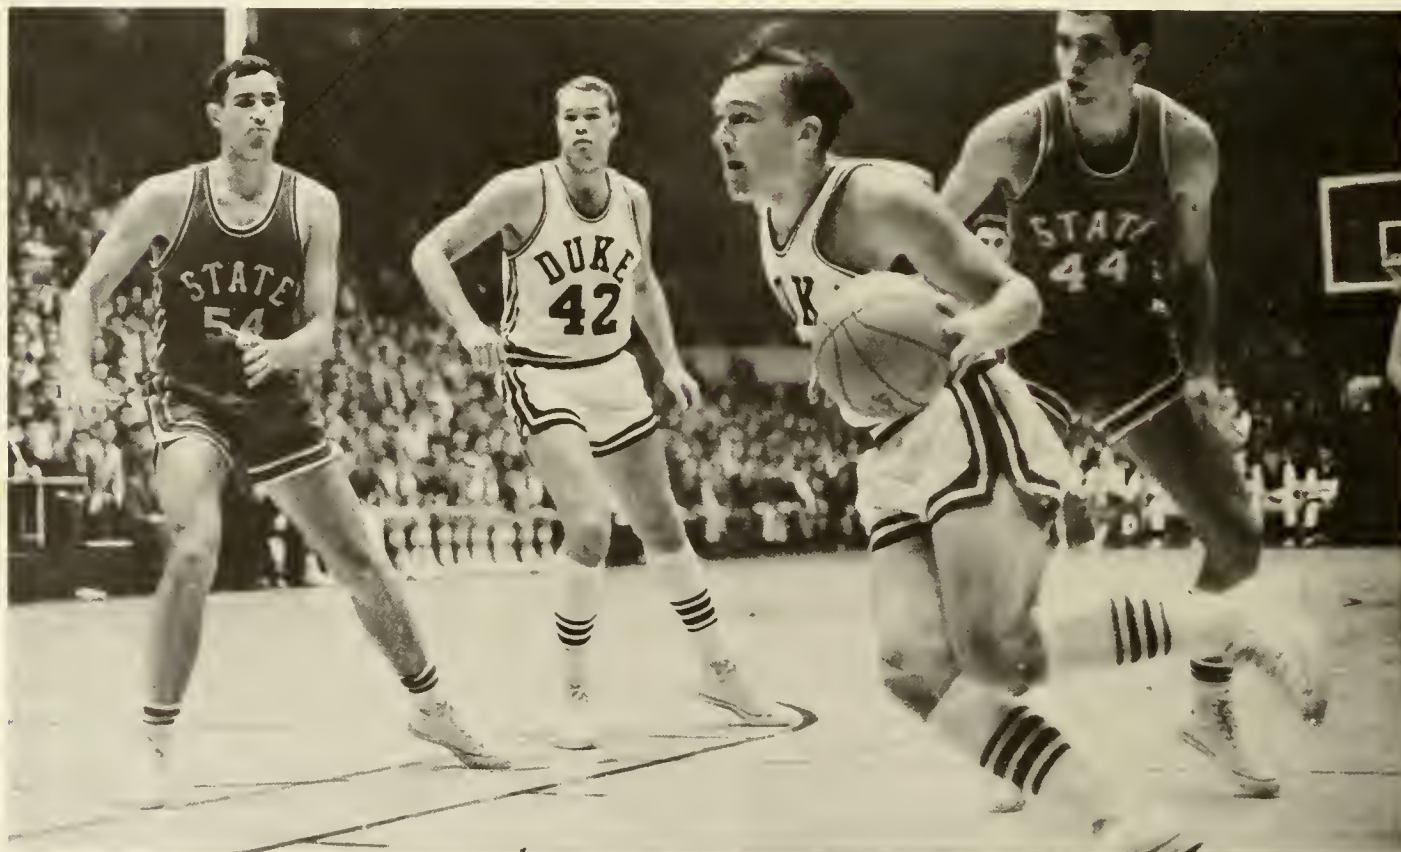

Out to avenge two defeats last year, Duke saddled Carolina with an 88-77 loss, as the balance of the Blue Devils paid off again. Sparkplug Vacendak directed the action, while Verga pumped in 29 points, Marin, 23, and Riedy, 12. Defensive whiz Marin held UNC's All-American Bob Lewis to 18 points, 13 below his average.

Steve Vacendak, Mr. Clutch, buried an underhand shovel shot from ten feet out in the last four seconds to break a tie and give Duke an 87-85 victory over Clemson. The Devils blew a 13-point lead during one three-minute stretch in the second half, but pulled out to win behind the shooting of Vacendak, Marin, and Verga.

After 76-61 and 101-81 runaways against Wake Forest and Maryland, the Blue Devils received a scare from a scrappy State five before finally pulling out an 84-77 victory. The lead changed hands 17 times and was tied on 20 different occasions, but the rebounding of Marin and Lewis and the top notch play of subs Ron Wendelin, Jim Liccardo, and Warren Chapman made the difference.

Bucky Waters, in his first season as head coach at West Virginia, proved his former boss Vic Buhas an excellent teacher as the Mountaineers edged Duke in a sizzling comeback performance, 94-90. much as 19 points in the first half, but couldn't hang on as Lewis, Marin, and Verga left the game by the foul route, after pumping in 25, 14, and 25 points.

Playing without sparkplug Vacendak, who was injured, the Dukes fought their way to a 78-74 decision over State, as Lewis canned 20 points to lead the Duke scoring. Two days later, the Devils racked up their 16th consecutive victory over Virginia, while Verga and Riedy rode the bench for a curfew violation.

The Dukes avenged their earlier loss to South Carolina, but it was no easy job, as the Gamecocks pulled a slowdown in a game that was undecided until the final horn. Two clutch field goals by Vacendak and a pair of free throws by Marin put the game on ice as the Devils squeaked out a 41-38 victory.

In one of their greatest comebacks of the season, the Blue Devils wiped out a 15 point second half deficit to nip Maryland 74-69. Marin's 17 rebounds and Verga's 27 points pushed the Blue to their 4th consecutive ACC season championship. Wake Forest's inspired Deacons, down by 15 points after 21½ minutes of the first half, battled back to shock Duke, 99-98 in an overtime thriller. Marin canned 35 points and grabbed 14 rebounds, but the story was personal fouls, the Devils picking up 30 to Wake's 19.

Warming up for the ACC tourney, the Blue Dukes demolished Carolina, 77-63, in the season final, behind the brilliant floor game and hot shooting of Vacendak. The Devils opened up in the second half and all but swept the Tarheels off the court. Riedy turned in his finest performance of the year, holding UNC scoring ace Larry Miller to four points in the first half while collecting 19

The following night, the Devils ran head on into a devastatingly effective Carolina stall which produced a 7-5 Duke lead at the half. With ten minutes remaining in the game, the Tarheels had worked up a five point lead, but the Dukes kept their poise. Vacendak tied it with a field goal at the two minute mark, and with four seconds remaining Lewis was fouled on a layup attempt. He missed the first shot, but buried the second, and Duke advanced to the finals with a tension-packed 21-20 victory.

For the third time, the Devils downed an inspired Wolfpack to grab the coveted ACC championship. State's scrappy defense was not enough to stop the rebounding power of Marin, Riedy, and Lewis, and the red-hot outside shooting of Verga and Vacendak. The Devils' tremendous balance placed all five starters in double figures, Vacendak leading the way with 18. Down six points with seven minutes to play,

Duke grabbed the Eastern Regionals crown after back-to-back tension-filled victories over St. Joseph's, 76-74, and Syracuse, 91-81. Against the Hawks, the Devils twice held nine point leads in the second half, only to see them vanish under a tough St. Joe press. With less than two minutes remaining the Devils held only a two point edge, but two free throws by Verga on the one and one, and four by Marin, provided the Duke's winning margin. Deadly foul shooting, accuracy from the outside, rebounding, and defense were the keys to the win over the Orangemen. The Devils converted 29 of 37 free shots, and a tight zone defense held All-America Dave Bing to his lowest total of the season, 10 points. All five starters placed in double figures, with Verga, Vacendak, and Marin bombing from the outside and Lewis and Riedy muscling in underneath.

The NCAA finals climaxed a great season for the Blue. With Verga at half strength due to a throat infection, the Dukes fought top-seeded Kentucky down to the wire before bowing to the Wildcats, 83-79, in a game that was close all the way. A tremendous 29 point scoring spree by Marin failed to turn the tide in Duke's favor, as Vacendak tallied 21 and Lewis 17 in the losing cause. In the consolation, the Devils claimed third place with a 79-77 win over Utah. With Duke leading by one point at the seven second mark, a Redskin sub came to the line in a one and one situation. Two straight time-outs by Coach Bubas unnerved him, he missed, and Liccardo grabbed the rebound. A free throw by Verga ended the scoring as the Blue Devils completed another successful season.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

Coach Tom Carmody's Blue Imps posted an 11-5 season record behind strong rebounding, shooting, and ball handling. With the "starting six" of Dave Golden, Gene Bromstead, C. B. Claiborne, Steve Vandenberg, Fred Lind, and Larry Dempsey, the Imps averaged an impressive 89.2 points per game while holding their opponents to 76.6.

The Imps were upset in the opener by VPI, 84-80, but bounced back to crush Wake Forest, 102-78, behind Vandenberg's 19 rebounds and 22 points. After losing to a great Carolina squad, 89-69, the Frosh reeled off three straight victories over Southwood, 106-77, Davidson, 107-83, and N. C. State, 70-66, before falling again to the Tarbabies, 78-65. Though losing two close ones by a total of four points to Carolina and Davidson, the Blue Imps completed the season by downing North Greenville, Wake Forest (twice), Southwood, N. C. State (twice), and Old Dominion.

Lind showed outstanding improvement as the season progressed, developing into an aggressive rebounder and a dangerous inside shot. Vandenberg led the team in rebounding with 12 per game and shared the scoring honors with Golden, who pumped in an average of 15.6 ppg. Bromstead canned 55.2 per cent of his floor shots to lead the regulars, and recorded the single game high of 34 points in a double overtime victory over N. C. State. Claiborne with his excellent ball handling and defense, continually proved that hustle pays off. An offensive-defensive standout for the Blue, frosh football ace Dempsey was lost to the squad at the advent of football spring practice. The 1965-66 Blue Imps showed balance, spirit, talent, and desire, and should provide welcome additions to the varsity squad.

MINOR SPORTS

CROSS COUNTRY

1965 marked the return of the Iron Dukes to ACC eminence, with the Devils grabbing six wins to only two losses. The season began with only three veterans returning, led by Capt. Dave Johnson. A fine sophomore crop, however, advanced to varsity status, with Paul Rogers, Billy Guy, and Fred Zodda making outstanding showings in their first season.

Rogers served notice of things to come when, in his first varsity start, he knocked a full 26 seconds off the Duke course record of 21 minutes, 47 seconds. While perennial powerhouse Maryland won the dual meet with the Dukes 23-26, Rogers scored a personal victory in taking first place. Duke was handed its second defeat in an upset by UNC, 28-29.

The State meet was a different matter as the harriers overwhelmed the opposition, grabbing six of the top fourteen places out of a pack of 70. In the ACC meet Duke placed a strong second to Maryland.

SOCCER

Blue Devil soccer hopes for the 1965 season rested with a young and inexperienced team. The squad of 33 included only four seniors, with 10 juniors and 19 sophomores. Of this group, there were only six returning lettermen. The Blue Dukes had to face a schedule which included Navy and Trenton State, 1964 NCAA and NAIA Champs; Maryland, ACC Champs and never the loser of a conference contest; the University of Miami, the Florida Intercollegiate Soccer League Champs; Davidson, the Southern Conference Champs; and Lynchburg, the Mason-Dixon Conference Champs. Led by Capt. Barry Stevens, however, the Devils got off to a fast start, sweeping their first three matches with victories over Appalachian, American University, and Davidson. The overall mark was 4-8, with the fourth win coming over N. C. State. Lack of experience, the key factor in 1965, became evident as the season progressed against stiff competition.

WRESTLING

The Blue Devil wrestlers, coached by Carmen Falcone and Bill Harvey, ended a disappointing season with a 2-4 record, pinning East Carolina and Washington and Lee in their two successful outings. In a close duel for fourth place in the ACC championships, Virginia barely nudged the Devil grapplers into fifth place. At that meet Tom O'Bryon and Dave Roberts finished second in the heavyweight and 115 pound classes, while Lee Kenna, at 152, Malcolm Darling, at 160, and Ed Johnson, at 177, registered fourths.

Coach Falcone is looking to next season more optimistically, with the entire squad returning plus some fine freshmen moving up to the varsity.

Hard hit by graduation losses, the swimming team experienced its most disappointing season in several years. Facing a difficult schedule in a tough conference, Coach Jack Persons' tankmen compiled a season mark of 1-8, with a seventh place finish in the ACC.

The Devils, led by Jim Burwell, captain Dave Randall, John Willis, and Charlie Couric, splashed by Appalachian in the first meet of the season, but failed to grab another win against such stiff competition as N. C. State, U.N.C., and Maryland. In the ACC championships, the Dukes edged out Clemson, who had beaten them in a regular season meet, to avoid last place in the conference.

FENCING

Topping the 1964-65 mark of 13-1 was the job of first year fencing coach John LeBar, and the season was a complete success, as the Blue Devils were undefeated in nine matches. The fencers, captained by Dudley Houghton, fought their way through some of the best teams in the South, capturing the ACC championship. Mike McMillen and Bob Swennes in foil bouts, Al Moretz and Dan Ligon in épée bouts, and Greg Perett and Dudley Houghton in saber bouts, represented Duke in the NCAA Championships held, for the first time, at the Duke Indoor Stadium on March 25-26.

The outlook for next season is excellent, with nine of the eleven-man team returning and a fine freshman squad moving up.

TENNIS

The 1965 edition of the Duke tennis team recorded a fine season in what was essentially a rebuilding year. After losing the top three players plus the number six man through graduation, Coach Robert C. Cox came up with three outstanding sophomores, Fred Turner, Sam Coleman, and Lex Varela. These men, along with veteran junior Doug Jones, seniors Nathanael Broker and Roger Greenwood, and reserves Bob Hollingshead and Warwick Butler, pushed the netmen to an 8-7 season and a fifth-place finish in the ACC.

In intersectional duels, the Devils downed Ohio State, Columbia, Hope College, Toledo, and an undefeated Davidson team, losing only to Florida, Rollins, and Presbyterian. The competition was stiffer from conference rivals. The netmen crushed Wake Forest, South Carolina, and N. C. State, but lost to Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina, and Clemson.

Coach Cox has high hopes for the '66 season. With three veteran juniors and a top-rated senior returning, it could be a big year for the Blue.

BASEBALL

The 1965 Duke baseball team was young but talented. With only seven returning veterans, Coach Ace Parker relied heavily on inexperienced sophomores who matured quickly through a tough spring schedule. After being shut out in '64 loop play, the Devils bounced back to post a 5-9 conference record and an 8-17 overall tally.

Sluggers Biff Bracy and Steve Holloway led the Duke batsmen with averages of .330 and .262, respectively. Hurlers Jim Liccardo (3-6), Jay Hopkins (2-1), and Ken Helms (2-1) were standouts on the mound for the Duke nine.

With twelve veterans returning and some good prospects moving up from the freshman team, the Dukes could field a contending club in 1966.

TRACK

The Duke track team was hampered throughout the 1965 season by a lack of depth, a deficiency overshadowed by outstanding individual performance and spirit. ACC and Colonial Relays record-holders, Bob Fogle in the 120 meter high hurdles and Rod Stewart in the shot put; Steve Barnes and Nick Homer, Duke high jump and pole vault record-holders; and George Flowers and Arthur Jacobson, key distance men, were standouts for the '65 thinclads.

Although doing well in the Florida, Carolina, Colonial and Penn Relays, the Dukes showed lack of depth in conference competition, downing Virginia and Wake Forest, but losing to Maryland, Clemson, U.S.C., U.N.C., and N.C. State. In the only inter-sectional meet, the thinclads overwhelmed Citadel. Looking forward to 1966, Coach Buehler expects a deep and well balanced team which could be in the running for conference honors.

GOLF

After the 1965 season, the Duke golf team sported a 6-2-1 record. The hackers started by devastating the Citadel, Clemson, South Carolina, and Davidson. After a loss to Wake Forest, the Devils finished up by beating State and Virginia, losing to Maryland, and tying UNC. In the series of three matches with UNC and Wake Forest, the linksmen grabbed a first and two seconds. The team finished third in the ACC tournament, while Trip O'Donnell tied for second in individual honors. Outstanding returnees, including seven seniors, prompt Coach E. P. "Dumpy" Hagler and Asst. Coach Bobby Lutz to predict an excellent '66 season.

LACROSSE

As a result of increasingly high academic standards, Duke lacrosse has suffered a decline from the top-caliber Blue Devil teams of the early 1950's. Competing in the National League, the nation's best, Duke stickmen have found the going rough with such teams as Navy, number one in the country last year, and Johns Hopkins, number two.

The 1965 Duke lacrosse team posted a 2-7 record, dumping Hartwick and the Great Grads, while losing to Amherst twice, Swarthmore, Navy, Washington and Lee, UNC, and Maryland. The outlook for the 1966 season is better, however, with outstanding defensemen Wayne Guckenberger and Mike Swomley, and midfielders Andy Beath and Butch Starnes returning. The talent and enthusiasm of these and other veterans should lead the Dukes to a more successful year.

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS

Throughout the year the Women's Recreation Association sponsors intramural competition among the dorms on East Campus, enabling the women of Duke to display their athletic prowess as well as gain recognition for their living groups. Tournaments are staged in various sports including swimming, tennis, volleyball, basketball, badminton, and softball, with a trophy awarded at the end of competition to the dorm compiling the greatest number of points.

University Life

PERSONALITIES

On campus, students know Dr. John Altrocchi as professor of abnormal psychology, as an advisor to freshman dorms, or as a liaison between faculty, administration, and students. Professionally, he carries on research and clinical work in the hospital and is mental consultant for a North Carolina county. An energetic teacher and a busy professional, Dr. Altrocchi is also a father who hangs in his office the artwork of one of his four young children and a young man who drives a red Porsche.

Membership in the Spanish aristocracy, Jesuit schooling, eviction from Spain when Franco came to power—these are fragments of the fascinating background of the dark, well-groomed Señor Torre. In his teaching, Señor Torre wishes to stress two important elements of education—intellectual freedom and discipline. His concern for students and their affairs ranges from table manners to the concept of the residential college, and he remembers all his students with a ¡Buenos Dias! and a nod.

For any student who knows Mrs. Ruth Friedberg either as a teacher or performer, one word comes to mind—enthusiasm. The lectures of her music literature course are enjoyable as well as informative because of her humorous anecdotes about composers and her contagious enthusiasm for music. An effective teacher and a warm person, she is also an accomplished pianist who performs in chamber works and accompanies at song recitals and musicals, her love for music penetrating the audience who sees and hears her play.

Dr. Weston LaBarre, an anthropologist of national repute, is probably the only professor at Duke who fluently speaks the language of the Aymara Indians of Peru. As a teacher, he offers his students the fruits of many years study of and concern for man as a species. Dr. LaBarre's vitality, astounding perceptions, and sophisticated articulateness extend from the classroom to his famous informal discussions with students and friends and to his stupendous outflow of publications.

A student in Dr. Richard K. Seymour's class soon becomes used to a familiar routine—the figure with ram-rod posture striding across the room, slamming books down on the desk in unison with the crash of the door behind him. His unwavering stare sparing no one, he forces his students to learn German or linguistics, either through unpredictable “quiz-lets” or through an unrelenting demand for class participation. A man who spices his comments with a “cheerful cynicism,” Dr. Seymour does not lecture—he tantalizes, stimulates, and teases until his students respond.

Commonly referred to as Duke's “China man,” Dr. Donald Gillin is a controversial figure known for his outspoken comments on Vietnam. To the students in his Chinese history course, wavy red hair and a flaming personality characterize the man who speaks to them with gusto and earnestness and whose remarks about his experiences in Taiwan give them a true feeling for the Chinese people. Whether listening to his lectures or engaged in his lively debates, students are stimulated by Dr. Gillin's ability to relate his field, 19th century China, to current issues.

Harvard, Bennington, Yale, U. C. L. A., translations, critical and original works, all bring to mind the French-mannered Dr. Wallace Fowlie. In or out of class he radiates the warmth of a man who mingles with his students, a warmth all the more surprising because of his stature. Never condescending, he is willing to discuss any field his pupils wish to explore. As a writer, critic, scholar, and friend he would receive 19 points on his own grading scale (he modestly explains that 20, a perfect score, is reserved for God alone).

Dr. William H. Poteat, Associate Professor of Religion, is one of the University's most sought-after instructors, a scholar whose sensitivity reflects his keen awareness of the dilemma of man in his struggle for self-understanding. To Dr. Poteat personal beliefs are extremely personal; his articulateness and insistence upon objectivity often initially baffle the student, but the consistency of his approach and a gradual familiarity with his technique eventually open up a new and awakening experience for the student.

Combining the polish of an ivy league manner with humor from the Kentucky hills, Dr. J. Woodford Howard, Jr. challenges his students to look at the intricacies of law and politics from a human point of view. For those sampling political science for the first time, he provides "grass roots" initiation in American government and spices the study of foreign systems with succinct anecdotes. In his course introducing law, Dr. Howard conveys his fascination with the enigmas of the legal world and brings to his class a clear understanding of the complications involved.

The Spanish class of Mrs. Helen Castellano is a favorite among men on campus who are pursuing a knowledge of Spanish in a relaxed, fairly painless atmosphere. Some might deem her class disorganized as they see her shuffle through the pages of her thick notebook, but she never fails to get her message across. Her method of presentation changes constantly as she adapts and readapts her teaching to fit the needs of her students. Mrs. Castellano's sparkling wit and friendly needling put life into the process of learning Spanish.

Pedaling hard, his beret pulled over his ears, a campus personality streaks like a spectre through the chilly morning, occasionally pushing an errant hair from his forehead. No bicycling agent for Scotland Yard, this happy-go-lucky young scholar is Dr. Richard Grant, specialist in the nineteenth-century French novel and Director of Undergraduate Studies in French. To the students for whom he has become an academic problem-solver and father-confessor, this lively paternal spirit is said to be the glue that holds the French department together.

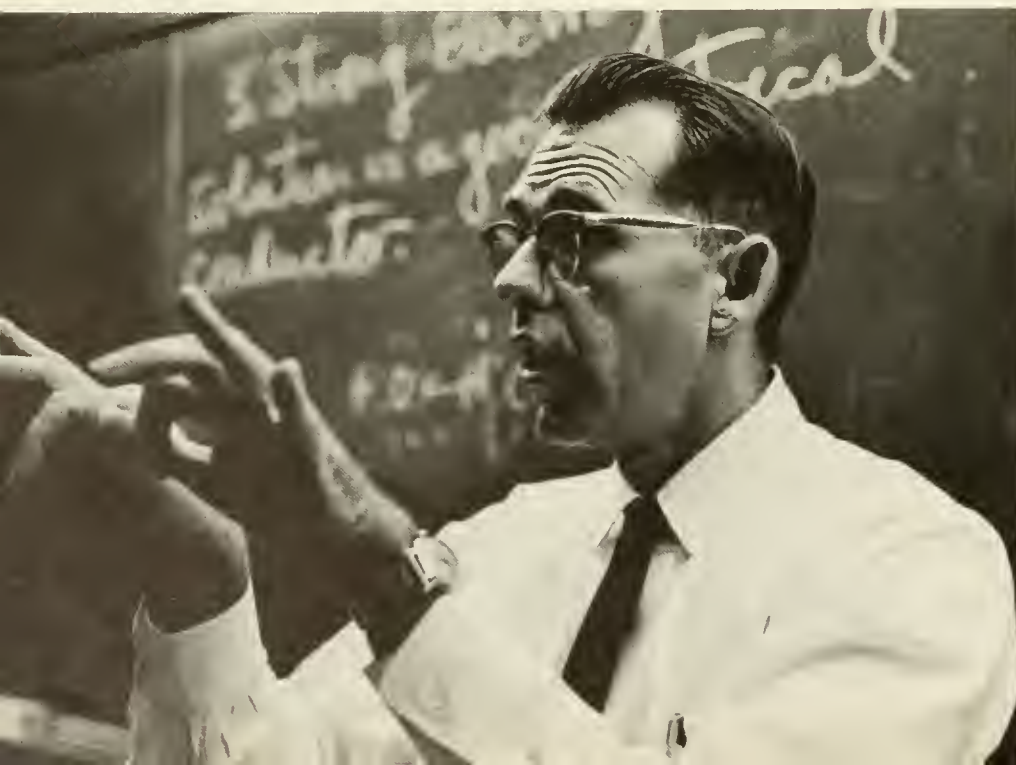

A semester under the tutelage of Dr. George Williams, a universally recognized textual critic of Shakespeare, is not soon forgotten. His students, seated for his dramatic lectures, watch as the player enters with a bright smile and gay bow tie. First, heedless of the cold weather, he flings all windows open. He then proceeds to lecture with a singleness of purpose, opening with a most significant sentence and concluding with one just as powerful and meaningfully related to the first, structuring his lecture precisely as Shakespeare would have it.

Any student who boards Mr. Hunley's bus is greeted by a friendly "Hiya!" and most probably rides to class with his ears full of hillbilly music and Mr. Hunley's comments. Both storyteller and listeners derive mutual enjoyment from any one of the number of stories which he occasionally pulls out of his bag. An avid sports enthusiast, Mr. Hunley knows all scores and players' names and at football games sits behind the team on his folding chair. He is also a friend to all stragglers and before leaving campus will stop the bus at any point to wait for them.

Dr. Orrin H. Pilkey, a marine geologist, is an assistant professor of geology and a research associate at the Duke Marine Laboratory. To his students, however, he is known as "Pilk-Pilk," an entertaining character, not much more than five feet tall, who wears clashing plaids and is an expert at getting chalk all over himself. He sometimes rides a motor-scooter, but gets tickets for parking it on the grass. A high-jumping volleyball player and a low-going limboer, he also played Capt. Grayson in Beaufort's production of "Blackbeard."

Dr. James F. Bonk, new Director of Undergraduate Studies in Chemistry, devotes his life to chemistry, tennis, and his students. His chemistry lectures are characterized by their amazing organization and by humor—who else would startle students by hurling a frozen tennis ball against the wall? Dr. Bonk is a practical and realistic man with a quick sense of humor and a quick intellect. He is aware of students' problems and vitally concerned with the university and its direction. A tennis enthusiast, he also coaches the freshman tennis team.

ORGANIZATIONS

Bill Hight, President

MEN'S STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

The Men's Student Government Association has three distinct branches: legislative, judicial, and executive. The legislative powers are vested in the Student Senate consisting of three representatives from each of the four classes and the executive officers of the Association. The Senate meets to discuss matters of University-wide interest and has the power to charter and supervise all student organizations on West Campus. The judicial powers rest with the Judicial Board and the Court of Appeals. The executive branch organizes all proposed legislation and sees that bills approved by the Senate are enforced. A five member Cabinet and four standing committees, MSGA, functioning as a working unit, has initiated many firsts this year. It has arranged for the resumption of open-open houses, for the presentation of Communist speakers after due consideration of the speaker ban law, and, finally, for the institution of an Inter-Governmental Council and a new Constitution. It has also handled teacher-course evaluations of major departments and student co-ordination of the building program.

MEN'S JUDICIAL BOARD

The Men's Judicial Board handles all offenses which fall under the penal code of the Men's Student Government Association. Defendants are given notice to appear, time to prepare a defense, and the hearing itself is conducted with their procedural guarantees well guarded. Testimony is recorded so that any questions which do arise later may be answered with reference to the record of the hearing. The Board then makes its decision and passes it on to the Dean's staff which renders final judgment although avenues of further appeal are open to the defendant.

Presently the Board is planning an extension of the existing range of penalties. The choice is now so limited that appropriate punishments cannot always be found for each of the various offenses possible. New penalty choices will allow the Board to make the fairest and most suitable recommendations.

FRESHMAN JUDICIAL BOARD

A vital part of freshman government, the Freshman Judicial Board consists of a representative from each freshman house. Offenders of the Code of Responsible Community Living are given warnings, followed by a hearing before the Board if the actions continue. A third conviction or a serious offense may be referred to the MSGA Judicial Board.

COURT OF APPEALS

The Court of Appeals is a student organization formed to protect the rights and privileges of Duke students. The court reviews cases that are appealed to it by the students themselves. Such appeals usually concern infractions of the university's dormitory or traffic regulations. The court also has original jurisdiction in cases dealing with student irresponsibility in the area of community living and in cases referred to it by the Judicial Board or deans.

AUXILIARY OFFICERS AND COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN

Assisting the MSGA officers and Senate, auxiliary officers and chairmen of standing committees assume administrative tasks. The Special Assistant to the President aids the president in his official duties. In interpreting the rules and laws of MSGA, the Attorney General works closely with the Judicial Board and the Court of Appeals. Editor of the MSGA handbook, the Assistant for Public Relations is a liaison to the Chronicle. Standing Committees on Publicity, Campus Life, Off-Campus Activities, and Academic Affairs are concerned with all aspects of student life.

TRADITIONS BOARD

How high is the tower? What's a dope shop? These are questions every student in Trinity College can answer because of the MSGA Traditions Board. Members are responsible for acquainting each freshman with important aspects of the Duke Tradition. The freshman house with the highest average on the Traditions Test wins a keg of beer.

THE ENGINEERS' STUDENT COUNCIL

The Engineers' Student Council serves as the coordinator of all student organizations in the College of Engineering to prevent conflicting and overlapping activities. ESC represents the students' interests in their relationships with the faculty, the administration, the public, and the other members of the campus community. The activities of the Council include preparing handbooks for freshmen engineers, supervising the Engineers' Guidance Council, and participating on the Student-Faculty Committee. The ESC also publishes a bi-weekly newsletter and presents the Engineers' Show in March.

WOMAN'S STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

President Suzie Cunningham

The Woman's Student Government Association serves as a communications link between students and administration and co-ordinates the student activities of the Woman's College. Four standing committees permit wide student participation in WSGA activities. The International Student Committee sponsors foreign students on East Campus, seeks to improve communications among international students and the Duke community, and examines study-abroad programs for Duke students. The Educational Affairs Committee, concerned with the curricular and co-curricular aspects of student life, included in its projects this year the development of an art workshop, maintenance of the exam file, and continuation of extended library hours during the exam period. The Student Welfare Committee investigates problems relating to student community life. The Social-Cultural Committee, co-ordinating the social aspects of WSGA, sponsors the Co-Ed Ball, the Christmas dinner with Dr. Knight's reading of A Christmas Carol, and the publication of the pictorial calendar.

WOMAN'S JUDICIAL BOARD

The Woman's College Judicial Board seeks to maintain high standards among women students through the Personal Code of Community Living and through enforcement of regulations. The Board is also concerned with increasingly effective policy formation and rule revision within the Woman's College. Members act as representatives of student opinion, formulating recommendations and working with the administration. In addition, the Judicial Board has familiarized students with the rule changes. This year a general committee, composed of students, faculty, staff members, and deans, was established to study the entire living system and to create the best possible guide for community living at Duke.

NURSES' STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Last spring major revisions were made in the Nurses' Student Government Association's Constitution. The Executive Council is now composed of the SGA officers, the Judicial-Honor Council chairman, all class presidents, and the freshman and sophomore class vice-presidents. These changes were made "to facilitate functioning of the Executive Council, to improve and strengthen the class governments, and to co-ordinate them more closely with SGA."

Instead of monthly meetings there are now only three regular SGA meetings—Honor Pledge Signing, campaign speeches for nominees, and installation of the new officers along with Santa Filomena tapping. The small number of SGA meetings has created a need for regularly held class meetings to discuss all legislation. Each class president reports to the Executive Council and a bi-monthly newsletter informs the students about their government.

NURSES' JUDICIAL HONOR COUNCIL

The NSGA Constitutional revisions have brought about major changes in the composition of the Nursing School's most important committees. "By merging the functions of the Judicial Board, Honor Council, and Social Standards Committee into the Judicial-Honor Council, enforcement of the Honor System will be easier and emphasis can be placed on the Honor Code itself rather than on the rules and violations of the Code." The Judi-Honor Council is a legislative and coordinating judiciary branch of the new student government.

In the School of Nursing the Honor System is a tradition and a way of life that "carries its influence into all facets of student activities and makes itself felt by enhancing the individual's feeling of honor." The new Code of Campus Living makes conduct a personal responsibility.

NURSES' COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN

Four committees integrate nurses' activities. The Publications Committee produces "Nurses' Notes" and handbooks for freshmen and upperclassmen. A new Social-Public Relations Committee plans dances and parties. The Religious Activities and Student-Faculty-Administration Committees provide programs to encourage spiritual development and intellectual discussion.

Seated: S. Rice (Student-Faculty Administration), B. Futrell (Orientation), E. Wishart (Publications). Standing: D. Kenworthy (Social-Public Relations), P. Ellis (Religious Activities), S. Flinton (Student Nurses' Assn.).

NURSES' ACTIVITIES

With the advent of the IBM machine, a third sex came into being on the Duke campus. According to the semester registration cards, there are men, women, and nurses. Nurses enjoy being both a part of the University and also a specialized group. They sponsor several social activities of their own including a Christmas dance, spring dance and cocktail party, and open houses in the summer. Individual nurses participate in University and School of Nursing organizations. It is their professional duties which differentiate nurses from other students. Though they do little hospital work as freshman, each year thereafter the nursing students add increasing amounts of hospital work to their schedules.

YMCA

To lead students to a stronger Christian faith and to serve the needs of others is the twofold aim of the YMCA, as it serves both the university and the surrounding community.

On campus, the Y handles the Freshman Advisory Council, the Freshman Y-Council, and dorm panel discussions. Its major project is Dad's Day, featuring a banquet and a picnic before a fall football game.

The Y also holds vesper services, provides ushers for chapel services, and conducts tours of the chapel.

On the community level, Y members act as Big Brothers to emotionally disturbed adolescents at the John B. Umstead State Hospital and to underprivileged children at the Edgemont Community Center, and also sponsor the Campus Chest fund drive.

Arithmetic help sessions are part of the tutoring service.

Roland Barnhardt and his father participate in one of the activities of Dad's Day.

The East Campus Center houses new Y offices, as well as providing a setting for receptions.

YWCA

The basic structure of the YWCA is a cabinet composed of delegates from every dormitory and the executive members. The "Big Y" is directed to the needs of upperclassmen; the Freshman "Y" is a parallel structure personalized for the concerns of the incoming class.

The YWCA theme for this year, "Face to Face," is carried out in a student-to-student way by dormitory discussions and encounter groups. Students may meet people in the Durham community through leading a Brownie Troop at Edgemont or tutoring a child in Operation Breakthrough. On the world scale, the United Nations Seminar during semester break brings the Y member a better understanding of world problems.

At Edgemont Community Center, underprivileged children look forward to sharing an afternoon with a Y member.

Several East Campus students regularly invite Edgemont children for an afternoon in the Art Workshop or a visit in the dorm.

YWCA services expand into the Durham community through volunteer tutoring programs.

Y members assist with recreational programs at Edgemont Community Center in Durham.

Y-FAC

Incoming freshmen are greeted in September by the 88 members of the Freshman Advisory Council, who serve as their advisors, friends, and confidants. On the first day of Orientation Week, luggage-carrying, direction-giving, and general assistance-offering number among the Y-Men's duties. Later, they help with registration, test proctoring, mixers, the freshman dance, and the coed picnic. In addition, each Y-Man serves as a date board and counseling center for his group. In all their functions, council members ease the freshman's transition into university life.

WOMEN'S FAC

The Freshman Advisory Council helps bridge the gap between high school and college. The FAC must possess genuine interest in her group, responsiveness to their needs, resourcefulness to deal with problems, and ability to inspire confidence. She opens avenues to the university's intellectual, cultural, and social opportunities by conducting library tours, accompanying the girls to lectures, and arranging meals with men's Y-groups. The small, intimate FAC group is the center of orientation during the first weeks of school, providing a forum for discussion of problems and exchange of ideas.

FAC'S instruct freshmen nurses in the complexities of the in-and-out card.

NURSES' FAC

Orientation Week is a busy week full of meetings, tours, and social functions, designed to introduce each freshman nurse to her new world, the university. Members of the Freshman Advisory Council are instrumental in helping freshmen become acquainted with Duke; these FAC's are selected from the sophomore class on the basis of scholastic ability, leadership qualities, and interest.

The other very important phase of the council's work is the Big-Little Sister Program. Each junior, acting as a Big Sister to one or two freshmen, helps her Little Sister to feel at home at Duke and in the School of Nursing. The culmination of each year's program comes the following fall when each senior Big Sister caps her sophomore Little Sister.

In the Nursing School greeting freshmen includes everything from smiles to trunk maneuvering.

ENGINEERING GUIDANCE COUNCIL

Tom Edgar, Chairman.

This year the Engineering Guidance Council has reduced its membership in order to raise the quality of the organization and of the guidance it offers to the freshmen engineers. The organization provides personal guidance for incoming freshmen engineers, both during orientation week and throughout the year.

Each member advises five freshmen, helping with any problems or questions they may have, personal or academic. He is also available to explain the workings of the Engineering School and tries to show the freshmen what engineering has to offer. Finally, the members encourage freshmen to work on extra-curricular activities in the Engineering School, so that they may benefit from the widely diversified range of activities available for personal development.

CAMPUS CHEST AND STUDENT CONCERN

This year the Campus Chest drive, conducted by the YMCA, and the Student Concern drive, sponsored by WSGA and YWCA, were held at the same time. Students of West Campus, Hanes House, and the Men's Graduate Center gave almost double the amount of any previous year. The proceeds from these most successful campaigns went to the International Student Fund, National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, Edgemont Community Center, World University Service, The American Cancer Society, the American Heart Association, and the American Foundation for the Blind.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Alpha Phi Omega, a national service fraternity, offers its members the opportunity to develop qualities of leadership, friendship, and individual service. Though not affiliated with the Boy Scouts of America, Alpha Phi Omega's only requirement for membership is previous scouting experience. Pledges work with brothers in scout troops, at the Wright School, and in the hospitals of the community. On campus, brothers usher at basketball games and keep a scoreboard of sports events.

Volunteers become familiar with Nicaraguan customs and cuisine and introduce their own to natives.

RELIGIOUS COUNCIL

Each of the denominational groups on campus elects a representative to the Religious Council, and the officers of each of the four undergraduate schools appoint a member to the council.

The council co-ordinates the activities of the various denominational centers and sponsors functions of its own. Some of these functions have included Project Nicaragua, a similar project in El Salvador, work at Edgemont and the Veterans Hospital, and efforts toward the establishment of a coffee house in the Chapel Basement—a new venture for the council. In addition, the council is responsible for bringing speakers to the campus and recommending preachers for Chapel services.

RELIGIOUS LIFE

In addition to the denominational centers on campus, there are numerous other organizations through which students are encouraged to understand and to share their religious experiences. The YMCA and the YWCA, advised by the Associate Directors of Religious Life, offer one opportunity for this phase of college life. The Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes also emphasize the religious aspect on campus.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

The Intervarsity Christian Fellowship is an interdenominational student group whose members are striving to grow in Christian discipleship and to understand Christ's meaning for the university student.

In addition to daily prayer groups and weekly meetings, the Duke members attend conferences with other North Carolina chapters in the spring and fall. At Christmas time they sing carols at the Cerebral Palsy Hospital, the Methodist Retirement Home, and the Hillcrest Convalescent Home.

STUDENT CENTERS

Centers of student religious life coordinate faith and religious learning with the total university experience. Through worship, study, and community service, the centers offer guidance and the rewards of diverse friendships while demanding deep personal reflection. Pre-symposium study groups, discussions of provocative movies and plays, and retreats provide opportunities for the student to develop his convictions. Centers maintained by Baptist, Christian Science, Episcopal, Methodist, Society of Friends, and Presbyterian denominations, as well as the United States Fellowship, the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, and the Newman Club serve members of almost every faith.

DUKE PLAYERS

The dramatic, comic, and musical plays presented throughout the year by the Duke Players provide an opportunity for students to enjoy or to participate in the dramatic arts. The club offers training in a wide variety of work including acting, set design and construction, publicity, costumes, make-up, lighting and art work.

Each year the organization presents five major productions, as well as participating in the Music Department's Studio Opera and presenting a program of one act plays. This year's season began with a production of the comedy "A Thousand Clowns" followed by the drama "Another Part of the Forest." The annual musical, this year "Finian's Rainbow," was given next and the final two presentations were "School for Scandal" and "Picnic."

The Players welcome students of all classes. The only requirement for membership is a major participation, either acting or backstage work, in two of the productions.

HOOF 'N' HORN

Hoof 'n' Horn again thrilled its audience with its annual musical production. This year the group performed The Pajama Game during Joe College Weekend and Commencement Weekend. The show was entirely directed, staged, and produced by students. Mike Schipke directed the play and Fred Kaufhold was the producer. Leslie Davison served as technical director, Camille Schipke directed the choreography, and Mary Hill was in charge of publicity. To encourage newcomers to join, a review with numbers from three previous shows was given to prospective members. The review included "The Telephone Hour" from Bye-Bye Birdie and "They Can't Compare to You" from Out of this World.

CHANCEL SINGERS

The members of the Chancel Singers are a small, select group of undergraduate and graduate students with proven musical ability. Their repertoire includes masses, cantatas, and requiems by noted composers including Mozart, Bach, Haydn, and Schutz. Under the direction of Dr. Paul Young, the group presented an excellent concert in the spring.

CHAPEL CHOIR

Throughout the year the Chapel Choir served the Duke Community with the excellent quality of its music. In addition to singing for the Chapel service each Sunday, the choir presented two services during Easter. For the first time in several years the Duke Symphony Orchestra accompanied the choir in its annual performance of Handel's Messiah in December and the performance of the Creation by Haydn for its spring concert.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

From Maine to Florida the Men's Glee Club is known for the excellent quality of its concerts. This year the Glee Club traveled to Florida for a concert tour during spring vacation, to New York for a concert before the National Association of Manufacturers, and, with the Women's Glee Club, to North Carolina Military Academy. Through the year the club seeks to enrich university cultural life by giving concerts in Page Auditorium with the Women's Glee Club and the Harvard University Men's Glee Club.

The men in this organization take great pride in the quality of their performances; therefore, membership is highly selective. Members are chosen through auditions which allow the individual to display vocal ability and experience. Thereafter, participation in all rehearsals, the annual tour, and the Chapel Choir is expected.

Practice begins with the careful selection of music, but a minor step in the long process of perfecting the choir's performance.

John Redmond finds the song effective and soothing.

Mr. Young directs expressively in order that every harmony may be exact.

The concert is intent, a study of control in forming notes and modulation.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

With the largest number of participants ever this year, the Women's Glee Club had a full schedule of performances. This fall, for the first time, forty members of the Men's Glee Club and forty members of the Women's Glee Club were invited to give a concert at the Carolina Military Academy in Maxton. As a somewhat ambitious and yet very gratifying task they chose as the highlight of their performance to sing R. Vaughan William's "Mass in G Minor." With the assistance of four professional soloists, the Glee Clubs presented their concert for the Duke student body in Page the Saturday prior to their tour. Since joint membership in the Glee Club and the Chapel Choir is encouraged, immediately following the tour, the Club devoted much of its time to the preparation of the annual presentation of the Messiah.

Angelus ad pastores ait . . .

With the addition of new members from the Women's Chorus, the Glee Club began its preparation for the Spring Concert presented in April. In addition to its own concert, the Club also helped with the Chapel Choir's presentation of its Spring Oratorio. As an effort to relax after the year's strenuous program, the combined Glee Clubs held a cabin party.

Weekly practices help the Women's Glee Club prepare for their concerts each semester.

Absolute attention is required for multipart singing.

MADRIGAL SINGERS

The Madrigal Singers under the direction of Dr. William Klenz illustrated his lecture "Dante in Music: Echoes, Reverberations, and Reflections." They sang the four Gregorian Chants of the souls in The Divine Comedy and two Italian Renaissance Madrigals with lyrics taken from The Divine Comedy. The annual Christmas concert was entirely sacred music: a villancio "O Reyers Magos" by Juan del Encina climaxed the program. Anna Hieder directed the spring concert which included Medieval and Renaissance music by English and Flemish writers.

Dr. William Klenz leads the singers in a rehearsal session.

A concert in the Music Room captures the Christmas spirit.

Attention focuses simultaneously on music and direction.

Clarinets are frequent soloists in the Concert Band's selections.

CONCERT BAND

Varying its music from classical to modern, the Duke Concert Band presents six concerts and a "Kiddies Konzert" each year on campus. In the spring the group tours the Middle Atlantic states, including in its performances works written by leading composers expressly for the Concert Band. On occasion well known performers have played with the band; for example, Stan Getz gave a surprise performance with the band this fall.

By demanding individual practice and two weekly rehearsals, the band maintains its serious approach to music and its reputation as a first-rate musical group. To counterbalance their serious pursuits the band members relax on a fall retreat and a spring weekend.

Lawn concerts are a favorite part of the Concert Band's scheduled activities each year.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The Duke Symphony Orchestra utilizes the talent of both university and community, with membership based on auditions. This year was in a sense a divided one; Dr. Allan Bone conducted the first performance in November, featuring Giorgio Ciompi and Leslie Parnas in Brahms' Double Concerto, before leaving on sabbatical. In January, a chamber concert of Bach music celebrated the arrival of the new harpsichord. Dr. Paul Bryan assumed leadership of the orchestra in Dr. Bone's absence, directing the March concert with Artur Balsam, pianist, as soloist, as well as the small orchestra concert in May. For this occasion a smaller group was chosen from the Symphony to present a program of eighteenth century Viennese music. Pianist Lauren Withers was featured soloist.

Anxious minutes before the concert.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

The Publications Board acts as publisher for the official undergraduate publications; and, as such, it controls financial matters, elects editors and business managers, and helps to solve problems arising in the various areas of publication.

This year the Board re-evaluated the student publications in an attempt to resolve the dissatisfaction expressed by board members, editors, and the student body. The Board also sponsored the Bassett Lecture and Workshop Series.

Each year Duke's annual, the CHANTICLEER, seeks to capture the spirit and life of the University during the academic year. Two staffs, editorial and business, work together to put out the book. The editorial staff is concerned with the copy and photographs which appear in the annual. The business staff handles finances, contracts, and the classes section.

This year several innovations were made in the annual. First, more color was utilized throughout the publication. The type of printing was changed from letterpress to offset, which enabled greater freedom in planning and working within the book. In design, a free mosaic layout was adopted. Efficiency was increased by a larger staff under a new staff organization. Finally, a new philosophy was adopted in which organizations and university life were represented through activities rather than through formal, posed pictures, in an attempt to produce a more natural and accurate picture of Duke 1965-66.

The staccato patter of headlines reflects events on a fast-moving campus. Editorial campaigns included a variety of specific topics. Ideas on open-open houses and the coordinate college system reflected a liberal view of the student-University relationship. Academic issues were also targets. A Chronicle-requested sound-off night was sponsored by the Forum and gave students a chance to voice complaints and criticism. Cartoons and columns livened up the editorial page. Material of a lighter nature appeared in "Last Word", and the new Personals column gave rise to much anonymous expression of opinion.

Reporters work on their articles.

Managing editors Dave Birkhead and Ed Grant confer on a layout.

Cogs in the Chronicle's newsgathering machinery shifted into gear twice weekly to turn out the latest in campus developments. News pages were under the direction of the two managing editors. Sophomore news editors were responsible for news coverage and supervision of freshmen reporters. The feature staff wrote in-depth reports on interesting activities, and photographers spotlighted major events, features, and editorial topics.

The sports staff kept Duke fans abreast of athletic activities. The Benchwarmer commented on athletic issues from basketball to superball.

Advertising and circulation were handled through the business staff. Circulation was expanded to reach faculty members as well as out-of-town subscribers.

ARCHIVE

The Archive staff worked long and diligently to alienate freshmen and influence Pub Board this year. Jini Rambo, editor, looked out the window and wrote autobiographies. Fred Daugherty, fiction editor, ate energetics and calmly laughed. Nancy Rottenberg, poetry editor, wove ponchos and read Patchen. John Close, her assistant, grew a beard and answered questions on Spain. Jane Darland, art editor, who made collages, was the girl in the black raincoat. Steve Garavelli, freshman, spoke of Nietzsche, Donne, Chardin, and Heilein. Harlan Dodson, Paul Somerville, and Worth Boone, the business staff, made fortunes by charging gas money to the budget. This year Peer and Archive were for the first time friendly (The Peer staff didn't have a couch in their office). The Chronicle only panned us five or six times, and the English department invited us to a few of their parties. It was a success, we hope, 65-66. J. R.

PEER

Practically nobody remembers when the floor of the Peer office was last painted. Anyway, it is now very filthy. . . . The walls are fairly clean; they were painted only a couple of years ago. . . . A few wall areas are graced with drawings done by staff members, friends, and casual visitors, and the two bulletin boards with old cartoons, jokes, and nasty notes. . . . These things are, however, secondary to the most overwhelming characteristic of 303 Flowers—the incredible mess on the desks—great mounds of paper and pencils and pens and garbage and a dried-up glue pot and scissors and old magazines of all types and coffee cups and empty cigarette packs. . . . How the staff can work in such a sty and still turn out a great (humor-feature) magazine is really beyond anyone's comprehension. P.C.

PLAYBILL

The Duke Playbill, patterned after Broadway's Schubert Playbill, furnishes the programs for major University attractions. Published for productions including performances of the Duke Players, the Hoof 'n Horn show, Glee Club concerts, and the Artists' Series, these programs provide critical reviews, program notes, and brief biographical material about the performers. In addition to their work in publishing the creative magazine, staff members have the chance to meet such performers as Pierre Boulez, John Ogden, and Artur Rubinstein.

Larry Norwood, editor.

Tom Fegley, business manager.

DUKENGINEER

The DukEngineer is published by the students of the College of Engineering in order to promote greater interest in the extra-curricular activities of the college. The publication also serves as a medium which recognizes the accomplishments of individual engineers and helps to promote better relationships between the students and faculty. Since its founding, the DukEngineer has become one of the nation's finest college engineering magazines.

This year, in direct accord with their purposes, the magazine's editors continued the "Reader's Expressions" department, which allows the students and faculty free comment on anything within the College of Engineering, and with the help of their staff sponsored an engineers' basketball tournament.

WDBS

Since its organization in 1947, WDBS has continually worked to improve its facilities and to bring news and entertainment to Duke students. Work at the station provides students with opportunities for experience in announcing, sales, advertising, accounting, engineering, and the managerial fields of radio communications.

MSGA officially organized the station as a student activity in 1951. In 1957 WDBS became the first college radio station to broadcast twenty-four hours a day, and the following year it was voted the outstanding student station in the country. That year the station also formed the Duke Sports Network to feed football and basketball games to other radio stations, and since that time numerous awards have been presented to WDBS. Last year the station moved to East Campus, where new offices and studios provided members with facilities equal to those of the area's commercial stations.

During the year the station maintains daily broadcasts of music and news. In addition, it covers special events at Duke including sports, campus elections, and guest speakers and singing groups.

ENGINEERS' RADIO ASSOCIATION

The Engineers' Radio Association was founded in the 1930's in order to offer the engineers at Duke an opportunity to gain practical knowledge and experience in the field of radio-electronics. The Association operates its own amateur radio station, has facilities for radio telegraphy and telephony, and in addition has a radio teletype. During the past years the club has received numerous local and national awards for the operation of its radio station; many of its members have worked stations in most of the states and on all of the continents.

RADIO COUNCIL

Since 1951 the Radio Council has served as the board of directors for radio station WDBS. The council makes major policy decisions, elects and advises the station managers, and approves the budget. At least five meetings are held each year, with additional meetings when necessary. Chairman of the council is Professor Joseph P. Wetherby; and members include the Dean of Undergraduate Women, Dean of Undergraduate Men, Dean of the Engineering School, Director of Student Activities, and student representatives from Trinity College, Woman's College, College of Engineering, and the Nursing School.

DEBATE TEAM

Participating in the only purely intellectual intercollegiate competition, the Duke Debate Team has brought recognition to the University for its high quality of performance since the days of Trinity College. The primary purposes of the group are to develop in each member the ability to think and speak clearly and effectively and to offer the opportunity for students to learn the techniques of analysis, reasoning, and refutation.

Members debated in a number of intercollegiate competitions this year on the role of law enforcement agencies. In addition, in March, the Debate Team again sponsored the Duke Coaches Invitational Tournament.

An open-air forum on West.

DUKE FORUM

The Duke Forum was organized in 1964 by a group of concerned undergraduates, graduate and professional students, and faculty members. Its main purpose is to provide as many ways as possible for the discussion and debate of controversial issues. The "ways" include open-air forums, house debates, and evening programs, such as the Sound Off. At the open-air forums anyone on campus is encouraged to speak out on any topic. This year the symposium speakers, Addiss and Crofut, and Herbert Aptheker participated in the forums.

SYMPOSIUM

This year's Symposium brought together four nationally-known figures of diverse backgrounds to debate "A Question of Values." This topic centered on man's search for meaning amidst contemporary theological reform and scientific revolution. Harvey Cox, author of The Secular City, expressed the opinion that the traditional Christian moral code is an anachronism in the nuclear age. Russell Kirk, famed conservative spokesman, suggested that the real crisis is in the values that remain constant as man's existence alters. Opposing his view, Harriet Pilpel, New York attorney, felt that the government must establish a closer relationship between its constituents' morals, mores, and legal mandates. The final speaker, Lawrence Lipton, argued that the Judeo-Christian moral code is immoral and should be rewritten in favor of a new morality.

Although the 1965 Symposium could not offer categorical answers to questions of values, it did offer the opportunity for the campus to consider and discuss valuable questions. The Symposium was awarded a $1,500 grant by the S&H Foundation for its significant contribution to campus affairs.

STUDENT UNION

Each year the Student Union, through the work of the Board of Governors and seven committees provides the university with a varied program of extra-curricular activities. There are three committees whose major concern is entertainment. The Major Attractions Committee brings well-known talent to Duke; this year their programs included Ian and Sylvia, the Lettermen, Marcel Marceau, and the Tijuana Brass. The Performing Arts Committee presents a stimulating program of the best in the performing arts. The New York Pro Musica and Olatungi were highlights of the year. The Social Committee provided such activities as football open houses, candlelight cabarets, the singing of Dionne Warwick, and the appearance of Miss Mississippi.

Two other committees are concerned with educational events. The Campus Services Committee activities included a Last Lecture Series and a seminar, "The Use of Securities in Personal Investment." The Educational Affairs Committee sponsored a major speakers series including addresses by George McGovern and Malcolm Cowley. Another Union committee, Visual Arts, presented its annual art show and two film festivals. Publicity for all the Union-sponsored events was provided by the Publicity Committee.

UNIVERSITY WEEKENDS STEERING COMMITTEE

The University Weekends Steering Committee acts as the policy-making body for two of the major university weekends, Joe College and Winter Weekend. Members consist of the Winter Weekend and Joe College committees and representatives from all major campus organizations. These members work together in scheduling and planning programs for the two weekends.

Again this year the theme of Winter Weekend was Mardi Gras, and West Campus chapter rooms and commons rooms were decorated for the occasion. On Friday night IFC sponsored a dance with Wayne Cochran and the C.C. Riders and the Drifters. Saturday night fraternities and independents held their own parties.

Joe College Weekend began on Thursday night with the annual float building. Friday afternoon was the parade, and that night the Supremes and Fred Smoot entertained the campus. The Saturday afternoon lawn concert featured Al Hirt; and, as further entertainment, each night Hoof 'n' Horn presented "Pajama Game."

SAILING CLUB

The Duke Sailing Club is open to all students who are interested in pleasure sailing or racing. Members participate in Sunday sailing trips to Kerr Lake and race in intercollegiate regattas. Classes for beginning sailors are also held.

Last spring the Duke sailors placed second in the South Atlantic Intercollegiate Sailing Association championship and first in the Duke Regatta. This year during spring vacation the club rented a fifty-two foot ketch, and fourteen club members sailed in the Bahamas for a week.

DUKE SPORTS CAR CLUB

The Duke Sports Car Club was founded in 1959 in order to broaden the interest in sports cars among both owners and enthusiasts on the Duke Campus. Membership in the club is open to anyone showing such an interest and a willingness to support the club in its activities.

As major functions the club stages rallies and gymkhanas, both for its members and for other enthusiasts in the area. The organization also provides information about the events of other local clubs, and it can arrange for members to work as flagmen and timers at Virginia International Raceway and at Sebring.

DUKE OUTING CLUB

Throughout the year the Duke Outing Club maintains an active program for those students who are interested in caving, canoeing, camping, and climbing. In addition, there are opportunities for students to take shooting, scuba diving, and skiing trips.

Exploration was the keynote of the club this year, and D.O.C. had a large turnout for all of its trips. Excursions were made to the mountains of western North Carolina, to the caves of Virginia, and to Satterwhite Point on Kerr Lake. One of the highlights of the year was a skiing trip to the North Carolina resorts during semester break. All of the activities were conducted with the help of the club's advisor, Dr. Furbish.

WRA

WRA sponsors a women's sports program at the university. All undergraduate women are members of the association, but the actual working body is the WRA Board, consisting of two representatives from each dorm, a representative for each interdorm sport, and the executive officers.

Each year WRA organizes tournaments between dormitories and between sororities in such sports as softball, swimming, volleyball, bowling, tennis, and badminton. In addition, the association sponsors Terpsichorean and Nereidian clubs. Recently WRA expanded its program to include, on an invitational basis, intercollegiate competition in several sports including hockey and tennis. This year an Orientation Week picnic and attendance at the state WRA meeting were added features of the year's schedule.

TERPSICHOREAN

Terpsichorean, sponsored by WRA, seeks to increase the technical skills and choreographic insight of its dancers. Under the direction of Mrs. Julia Wray and president Peggy Hackney, members attended weekly workshops and modern dance classes given by the physical education department and presented a spring concert. In addition, for the first time, the club participated this year in a festival concert entitled "Joy!", which was presented in December.

NEREIDIAN

Nereidian offers the women of Duke the opportunity to develop their skills in synchronized swimming. Members presented a demonstration for freshmen during Orientation Week and spent the remainder of the year in preparation for the water ballet show presented in March this year. Later in the spring selected members competed in an intercollegiate synchronized swimming meet.

PEP BOARD AND CHEERLEADERS

"It sounded like everybody in the place was hollering for Duke," conceded The Daily Tarheel, aptly describing the Duke spirit which is promoted by the Pep Board and Cheerleaders. By papering the campus, painting the bridge, and creating campus-wide spirit, the Pep Board prepared for pep rallies, bonfires, and the games. The Cheerleaders, headed by indefatigable Al Cone, stepped in leading cheers of Go Duke! Under the Arm Pitt! Crunch UNCCH!
Damn the Deacons! and Wreck Tech! Shouts of the Freshmen Hornies and the rest of the student body, antics of the Blue Devil, music of the Pep Band, and dances of the Cheerleaders filled the stadiums.
These are the reflections of their spirit, the spirit of competition, the spirit of Duke!

PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY

The Duke Pre-Medical Society, consisting of pre-medical students as well as other persons considering a medical career, seeks to deepen each member's awareness of the field of medicine and to foster greater interest in the profession. The society holds general meetings with guest speakers and participates in tours of various departments of the Medical School. Eighteen upperclassmen serve as an Advisory Council for freshmen pre-meds, and members of the Duke Medical School faculty advise upperclassmen. In addition, this year for the first time members published a national bi-monthly magazine, Caduceus.

BENCH & BAR

Each year Bench and Bar presents a program of activities designed to give undergraduate students a better insight into the study of law and the legal profession. The purpose of the organization is not to develop lawyers, but to acquaint the student body with the many legal career opportunities available.

Throughout the year Bench and Bar presents speakers from law schools, law firms, and the government. It also offers a "day in court" and the chance for members to participate in mock court trials. Through these activities the organization enables interested students to investigate law as a possible career.

The student chapters of the American Society of Civil Engineers have been organized to complement the course programs of the civil engineering students. The society helps these students to gain insight into the new developments in civil engineering, and it offers opportunities for them to make professional contacts and associations that will be valuable later in the pursuance of their careers.

At Duke the ASCE conducts a series of activities during the academic year. These activities include discussions of papers that are prepared and presented by members of the society, meetings with outside speakers, and visits to engineering works under construction.

The Duke student branch of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, the world's largest technical organization, gives prospective electrical engineers a chance to explore the possibilities of the engineering profession and to keep abreast of current developments in the field. IEEE programs include speakers from the federal government, Research Triangle Institute, industry, and the Duke faculty, whose topics range from bio-medical engineering to the latest research in radar systems. Each spring the student submitting the best engineering paper travels to Atlanta to compete in the Southeastern Regional Contest.

AIESEC

AIESEC, a new group on campus, is an international organization that arranges for the exchange of business traineeships among member groups from different countries. Open to students of economics, the program provides practical business experience and enables students to learn about ways of life in foreign countries.

The program works on a more or less personal basis. Each student contacts business firms in order to procure a job for a foreign trainee. In return, the student is entitled to go to a foreign country to work as a trainee for from two to six months. Activity in the exchange is limited to students who have completed their sophomore year and six semester hours of economics. To work in some countries students are required to speak the language of that country, but this is not generally the case.

In order to produce young men capable of accepting the leadership responsibilities of a naval or Marine Corps officer, the Department of Naval Science offers to the midshipmen of the NROTC unit basic naval science courses, as well as practical experience. In addition to taking courses ranging from naval orientation to celestial navigation and the principles of naval engineering, the midshipmen gain practical experience through summer cruises. On cruise the "Middies" gain a first-hand knowledge of naval aviation, amphibious assault, as well as standard shipboard operations. Cruises also provide an opportunity to see both the United States and foreign countries, as often they carry the men to a wide variety of foreign ports.

AIR FORCE ROTC

The AFROTC program at Duke gives male students the chance to earn a commission as Second Lieutenant in the Air Force Reserve as they earn their baccalaureate degrees. After two years of training men are selected to enter a two year advanced academic program which includes drills, leadership laboratory, field training during the summer, and flight instruction which may lead to a private pilot's license.

Each year AFROTC sponsors a joint review with NROTC; and awards, medals, and trophies for excellence in corps activities are given. Extra-curricular activities include the Duke chapter of the Arnold Air Society, a national honorary fraternity, and the Duke Air Force Club, a social group.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

The overall objective of the Woman's College Panhellenic Council is to maintain on a high plane sorority life and intersorority relations within the college. This group of sophomores, juniors, and seniors is comprised of two representatives from each of East Campus' twelve national sororities, the president and vice-president of the council not being included in the individual sororities' quotas.

The major efforts of the 1965-66 Panhellenic Council were centered around the evaluation of the sorority system at the University and the determination of possible improvements in present procedure. Some of the university activities with which Panhellenic was concerned were Fall Rush, Greek Follies, Sigma Chi Derby Day, and cooperation with the I.F.C. during Greek Week and Joe College Weekend. In addition, the Council serves as a Foster Parent to a Vietnamese child, offers a scholarship to a deserving student, and organizes ushering service for basketball games.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Alpha Chi's reconvened after summer and plunged into preparation for rush. With Anne directing and the monotone chorus gracefully mouthing the words, our rush spirit rose to new heights; we ended two weeks of confusion with the pledging of thirty wonderful girls. A semester of excitement had only begun; in quick succession came Homecoming, Derby Day, the Halloween party, the Delta Sig beer party and Theta Chi football game (Alpha Chi Omega—17, Theta Chi—6!). Our semi-formal highlighted first semester social life. Between Thanksgiving and Christmas we had just enough time for the Christmas party and a trip to the old people's home.

Second semester saw the initiation of pledges and their presentation at the annual formal dance. Soon it was time for Peanut Pals, Greek Week, and Joe College, then the Senior Banquet and good-bys; we parted with happy memories and expectations of another year in Beta Upsilon.

ALPHA PHI

The fall of '65 was a glorious mélange of renewing old friendships, making new ones, studying madly, and partying gaily. Heavy course loads seem lighter because of Homecoming, secret buddies, study breaks, Derby Day, picnics in Duke Forest. After Christmas, the semester draws quickly to a close. Early second semester, highlighted by the Pledge Dance, seems the happiest time of year. Soon pledges have another reason to be happy as the silver ivy leaves are replaced by the gold pin of Alpha Phi. Joe College and Greek Week are highlights of the spring, as are numerous candlelights and showers. As the year draws to an end, we say bood-by at the Senior Party; after exams and a final fling at the beach, we go our separate ways for the summer.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Summer . . . travel . . . excitement . . . back to school! A quick "hi" to the Alpha Tau Omega's at a section party and then—rush, those twenty-five new pledges, Delta Delta Delta's cheering Homecoming Queen Rip Gilbert, the fireside warmth and friendship of fall retreats, and western frolics at the legendary Delta Delta Delta-Delta Tau Delta party. Derby Day, a bubbly cocktail party, and frantic skit practices for the Follies kept us busy 'til Christmas, when singing and bringing cheer to the Methodist Retirement Home made a happier season for the Delta Delta Delta's. The New Year brought exams, which were quickly forgotten in the swishing satin of the Pledge Dance and parties and fun on Joe College and Greek Weekends. After unwinding in the June sun, it was off again, for summer . . . travel . . . new things to share.

Not feeling too energetic, huh.

DELTA GAMMA

September found the DG's occupied with a busy rush, and our wonderful pledges made it all worthwhile. Fall activities were just beginning, however, with Homecoming, the pledges' Halloween party, picnics in Duke Forest, and football games at Lazy Acres. Christmas cheer abounded at the annual cocktail party and in Secret Buddy Week with its small gifts and happy stealth. 1966 brought a beautiful pledge formal, Greek Week, float building, and a hesitant good-by to those we have known so well and yet so briefly . . . farewell to Betty K's indulgent smile, to Sherri's pitch that always seemed a little high, to Thais' pink elephants, to Sue J.'s thoughtful surprises, to Davidson's bridge painting and Bayles' bridge playing, and especially to Libby's spirited leadership.

That exotic, far-away appeal.

Delta Gamma welcomes new pledges.

We welcomed twenty-three pledges to the KD Emerald City as the year began, a bright-colored tapestry of football games, Junie in the Follies, an endearing pledge skit, the Children's Home, KD and Kappa pledges battling for grades—all woven together with Lucy's laugh, Dee Anne's pranks—in short, our sisterhood. The winds of Winter entered the Emerald City . . . the retreat, the pledge-active football game, our Christmas party with the Phi Kaps for underprivileged children, and the exchanging of gifts within our own circle.

The greenness of spring was approaching as we danced to the wee hours at our pledge dance. Time flew by as we built our Greek Week booth, inspired by last year's victory, and worked on the Joe College float. For some of us the golden college years were over too soon, but the full-blown white rose—grown in sisterhood—would never be forgotten.

An extra-special Christmas party.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

With the "in Crowd" to lead the pack, rush had its usual joys, besides some tough pledges. The whirl began—the customary winning of the Beta-Kappa football epic, first place on Derby Day, East Beasting with the Alpha Delta Pi's plus some. Knitting at the retreat, a number-one-on-campus scholarship banquet, while the pledges kept busy under their Texan teacher's command. An unusual amount of lavalieres, pins, and rings, as Kay managed to capture the heart of not one man, but a whole group. 1966—initiation, the big fling of the Triad in March, the engineering feats of Joe College, the continuing elaborateness of Monmouth Duo, mystery men at the Senior Banquet. An indefinite stay at Myrtle, graduation for the lucky. For the rest, with the best wishes of Rheva and the gang—see you in the fall for another go at group fun.

Boozing this early in the afternoon can be fatal by dusk.

A retreat into the state of drunken sailor.

PHI MU

Fall brought the annual retreat in Raleigh for Phi Mu's to make final plans for rush and another year at Duke. The first weeks of school were devoted to rush in the excitement of getting the best possible pledge class. Soon Homecoming came along, and we all pitched in to put together a poster and get it to West in time for the festivities. With the help of able coaches we whipped the Derby Day team into shape and showed our true colors by winning the Zip Strip. The semester closed with a Big-Little Sister banquet in the Old Trinity Room and Christmas carolling parties in the holiday spirit.

To start the new semester off right, we took over Blair House for an evening of dining and dancing to honor our pledges, making them true members. Joe College and Greek Week were also tops on the list of spring activities. The semester and another year closed with a farewell to the Seniors at our traditional picnic. With this farewell, another happy year ended.

PI BETA PHI

Pi Beta Phi—a composite of faces, but more, a composite of shared experiences and feelings. RUSH—a frenzied planning, buffalo fur and Alice pinafores, songs and laughing, despair and rejoicing. PLEDGING—the gradual recognition of faces, a bedroom slipper workshop, exercises in the frosty dawn, a pledge paddle hastily signed in the Union, cigar smoke in Rat Court. SISTERHOOD—the retreat fire with hot chocolate and sleeping bag stories, Sound Off with the Edina yell, meetings in Carr with talking and cookies, hands linked in candlelight, midnight sessions in the dorm, ginger ale and popcorn, Christmas carolling and icy hands, famous Senior trips to the Ivy Room, discussions, the now, the future . . . PI BETA PHI—a composite of girls who remember these things, coming and going, sharing the years. We leave behind more than faces and names.

Beautiful harmony—how about learning the words.

Rushees and sisters get acquainted.

SIGMA KAPPA

A retreat to Kerr Lake began the year as Sigmas laid plans for rush. Returning to classes, we were happy to hear that 60% of the chapter had made the Dean's List. A pizza dinner honored our pledges; then we were caught up in a myriad of activities: Homecoming, the Follies, pledges' lavaliering, the Red Room mobile contest, and the Founder's Day tea. We celebrated Christmas at the home of an alumna, Mrs. Howard Haines—the New Year brought an exam break party to honor members whose birthdays fell outside the school months—and on Valentine's Day the pledge formal climaxed an initiation process that began with Friendship Week. The rest of the year went like a flash: Joe College, retreats, the senior banquet, and one last trip to the beach, before we split apart after another happy year.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Zeta's converged on campi, still feeling the spirits from our beer picnic at Lazy Acres last spring. In a last-ditch effort at organizing (?) rush, we retreated to the woods of Camp Crabtree. It worked! "The Group" increased to carry on the stellar traditions.

Thanks to Ronni and the Crow, Zeta took it . . . first place in the Homecoming posters! We made our usual showing at Sigma Chi Derby Day (both on the field and in the section). Our prowess came through, however, when "Katharine's Killers" stomped the Sigma Nu's in football, 13-6. In spite of a few minor casualties (P. Jackson's motorcycle feat, Bunny's football kneecap, and Honda burns suffered by Patty, Geline, Berk, DeMuro, and Sapp), everyone managed to show up for the Christmas cocktail party, ending the semester with cheer.

Zeta Week climaxed with the Pledge Dance (even Burch made it home) and initiation. They finally know the mystic goodies! Ah, spring! Beach weekends, days at the Eno, nights at the UG—and exams. Then back to the beach for a final fling and farewell.

A flame at the Zeta retreat!

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

Executive Board. Seated: G. Goodyear; B. Bovard, President; J. Durrett. Standing: J. Reynolds, J. Coil, J. Holder.

The Interfraternity Council is set up to further fraternity relationships, unify fraternity action on common problems, and act as a medium of cooperation between the University and the system. Headed by Brian Bovard, the IFC is divided into three bodies: the Council of Presidents, Judicial Board, and Executive Board. The Council of Presidents, composed of the eighteen fraternity presidents, has the power to elect the Executive Board and to initiate and institute legislation. The Executive Board is the governing body of the Interfraternity System, with power to establish policy not covered by the constitution and to initiate legislation.

The whole structure of IFC was revised this year, with changes in rush, the constitution, and the creation of the Judicial Board as a separate body. IFC's evaluation of rush resulted in a general tightening of off-campus regulations and relaxing of on-campus rules, with other changes proposed for the future. In addition, national interest in discriminatory clauses prompted an investigation of this question at Duke.

Brian Bovard, President

IFC Judicial Board. First row: R. Helstein, J. Reynolds, J. Morris. Second row: R. Lichty, C. Rice, J. Hasson, W. Heritage, F. Mock.

The Judicial Board was created this year to hear all violations of the IFC penal code, working closely with the IFC Investigating Committee which ascertains the facts of all cases, and to interpret the IFC Constitution. Although the board's role within the fraternity system is yet to be determined, its main goal is the fostering of mutual understanding among fraternities, especially in rush.

IFC also works through various committees. In the areas of rush, pledging, and scholarship, committees endeavor to improve the Greek system at Duke. The Publications Committee presents the aspects of fraternity life to freshmen; IFC activities are brought to the attention of the University by the Publicity Committee. And the newly created Public Relations Committee works to promote better relations within the University and the Durham community.

Behind the scenes of a sorority booth.

GREEK WEEKEND

Greek Weekend, under the chairmanship of Bill Buchanan, proved to be a fantastic three days. Beginning on Thursday night, April 14, IFC rented a drive-in theatre to show cartoons and old-time movies. The annual Greek games and carnival were held on Friday, followed by a concert by the Brothers Four. Saturday afternoon brought the "Rites of Spring," a picnic with entertainment which included Hank Ballard and the Midnighters, the Enchanters, the Jammers, and the In-Men. Fraternity parties ended the best Greek Weekend yet.

Brute strength tips the bucket and a willing victim gets dumped on.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Taus returned to "Old House C," beginning the year with several lively beer blasts. Leadership was amply furnished on and off the gridiron by the Baby Elephant, while other contenders for athletic laurels were Vag, Grundy, Flap, Camel, Rider, Heavy, Zircon, Forty-four, Foggy, and Igor. The Homecoming display was a hair-raising experience; meanwhile the Brothers booked and poured dimes in the juke-box for Tubbie's blasts. The Honda bug threatened the lives of Pinky, V.C., Shine, and Shower; Snake and Taz suffered a worse fate in the tall timber. ATO's appeared on East in Roaring 20's garb to announce the gangster party, high point of the winter. Steve and Trip led rush, and the gang relaxed through exams, awaiting spring, the riverboat Sweetheart Ball, Beach, and the end of another vintage year.

BETA THETA PI

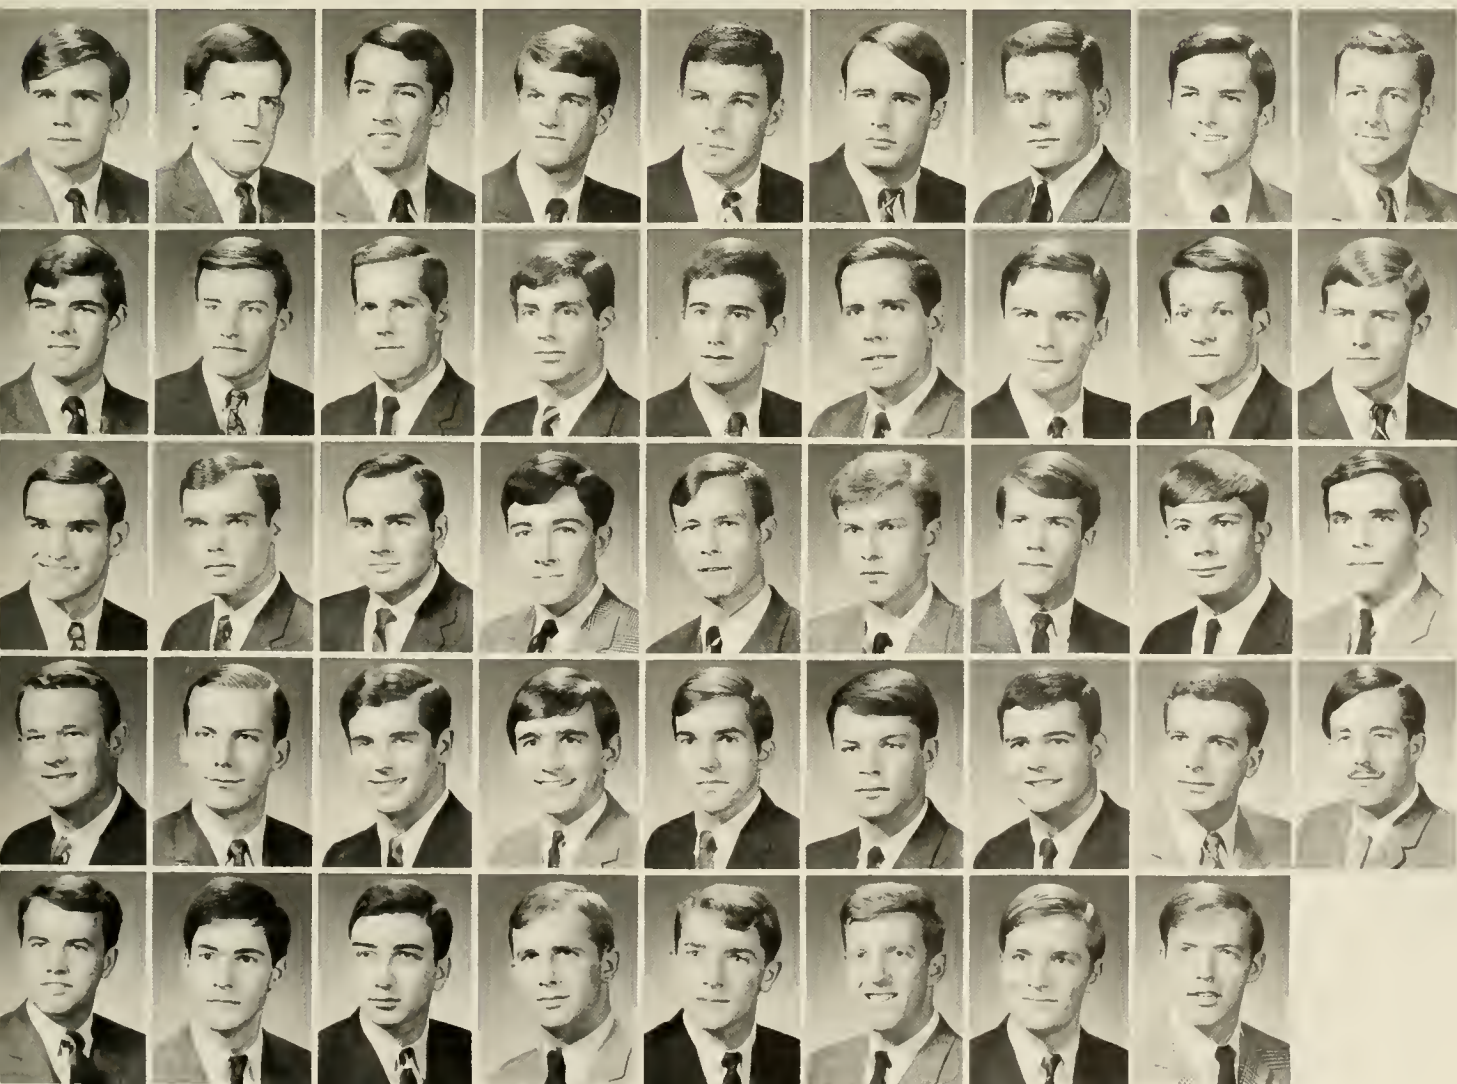

Unhampered by the dullness of responsibility, the Betas deigned to return to campus and once again fill numerous sinecures. Complete renovation of the chapter room brought forth untapped resources of aspiring artisans. Chico proved inept at paint rolling and was thereby relegated to plastering cracks.

Under the auspices of P. G., "Esquire's Best Dressed Man", the Betas staged an unprecedented Homecoming Formal graced by the Right Reverends Fraser and Grouse and their attendant minions of red-eyed soul. The Kappa football game, Pi Phi Xmas Party, and Faculty and Freshmen Open Houses paved the path to further strength as Guck and Art led the products of a highly successful rush into the web sewn by Ford and Chuck.

Spring! The sap rises as the Betas revel in Greek Week rites and create another float of elusive significance under the perspicacious eye of socio-economist William G. Huston. Pledge Formal, Beach Weekend, Jungle Party, and a final hecatomb offered to Comus closed another chapter in the history of Utopia.

DELTA SIGMA PHI

The brothers of Alpha Epsilon wandered back to the rockpile to find our numbers diminished by four married brothers (hmmm?). We started the ball rolling with open houses and cook-outs. Our mechanized motor doomed our chances to "Box the Tigers," but didn't ruin the ensuing party. Alex Doig's unexpected visit helped upset everyone, especially Dog. Craig's postcard was a stand-out at the Christmas party. Jarrard led us in rush, with 24 shake-ups well worth the late hours and cold mornings. Winter Weekend proved a bash; spring brought the annual floods with spring rites, Greek Weekend, and Joe College. Beach Weekend closed out the year as we struggled through exams, and praised Sphinx for a time well-spent.

DELTA TAU DELTA

As Delts reconvened, silence betrayed the absence of the Vigilantes; realizing the threat to our academic standing, we aimed for intellectual pursuits and celebrated with a Buff. For Homecoming, Toad led the way to a monstrous, non-functional display, and with Nurkin's choreography, we won 1st Prize in the Follies. Western Weekend saw Delts on campus in boots, sideburns, and hats; corral and saloon added to the fun of the barbecue and barn dance. At the Queen Dance, extravaganza of the year, Chris Nicoll was crowned. The fraternity moved to Florida and Nassau for spring break; then pledging, warm weather, Charlie's, and the Beach made life bearable 'til finals, when Delts rallied to pass another year.

KAPPA ALPHA

The Grand Old Gang returned for new adventures in and out of the classroom. Super Virgin tried to lead the troops down the straight and narrow, but the most frequently traveled road was the one to the UG. On the gridiron the Blue Devils were led by Frog and Dronke and other KA's, with Mombo and European in the stands with just about anybody. "C" attempted to keep peace in the section, an impossible job against Wild who cultivated a Vegetable garden, Bear who tried to mold Plastic into something useful, and Baby Eagle who showed

Scar his moves with women. SI and our Rose Diane did much for the animal image as did the Blood Drive led by George and Coach McGee, and our only I.M. competition came in half-quart cans. After a successful Rush, the Troops set out to improve the scholastic record, but as spring approached, activities focused in spring practice, Old South, trips to the Eno, and beer softball games. The year drew to a close, the seniors said farewell, and the rest of the Grand Old Gang promised, "I'll always be here one more semester."

Petunia gave Mambo a new shirt—finally.

KAPPA SIGMA

Kappa Sigs infiltrated the campus under the control of Biggie, Gino, Zim, Lightning, and Ghengis, not to mention the benevolent supervision of the Great Vard. The big plan was new furniture by October—it finally worked in March. Meanwhile, George Bill sweated over his cardboard cave, everybody grossed it out, and someone put a first-prize ribbon on it. The Great Blizzard signaled the beginning of rush and the end of windows in House G. Beach Weekend brought the year to a climax, and everyone returned to their local draft boards with strains of "Good Night Irene" still ringing in their ears, all firmly convinced that Kappa Sig was by far the best fraternity on campus. . . .

Ah, would you believe second-best?

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

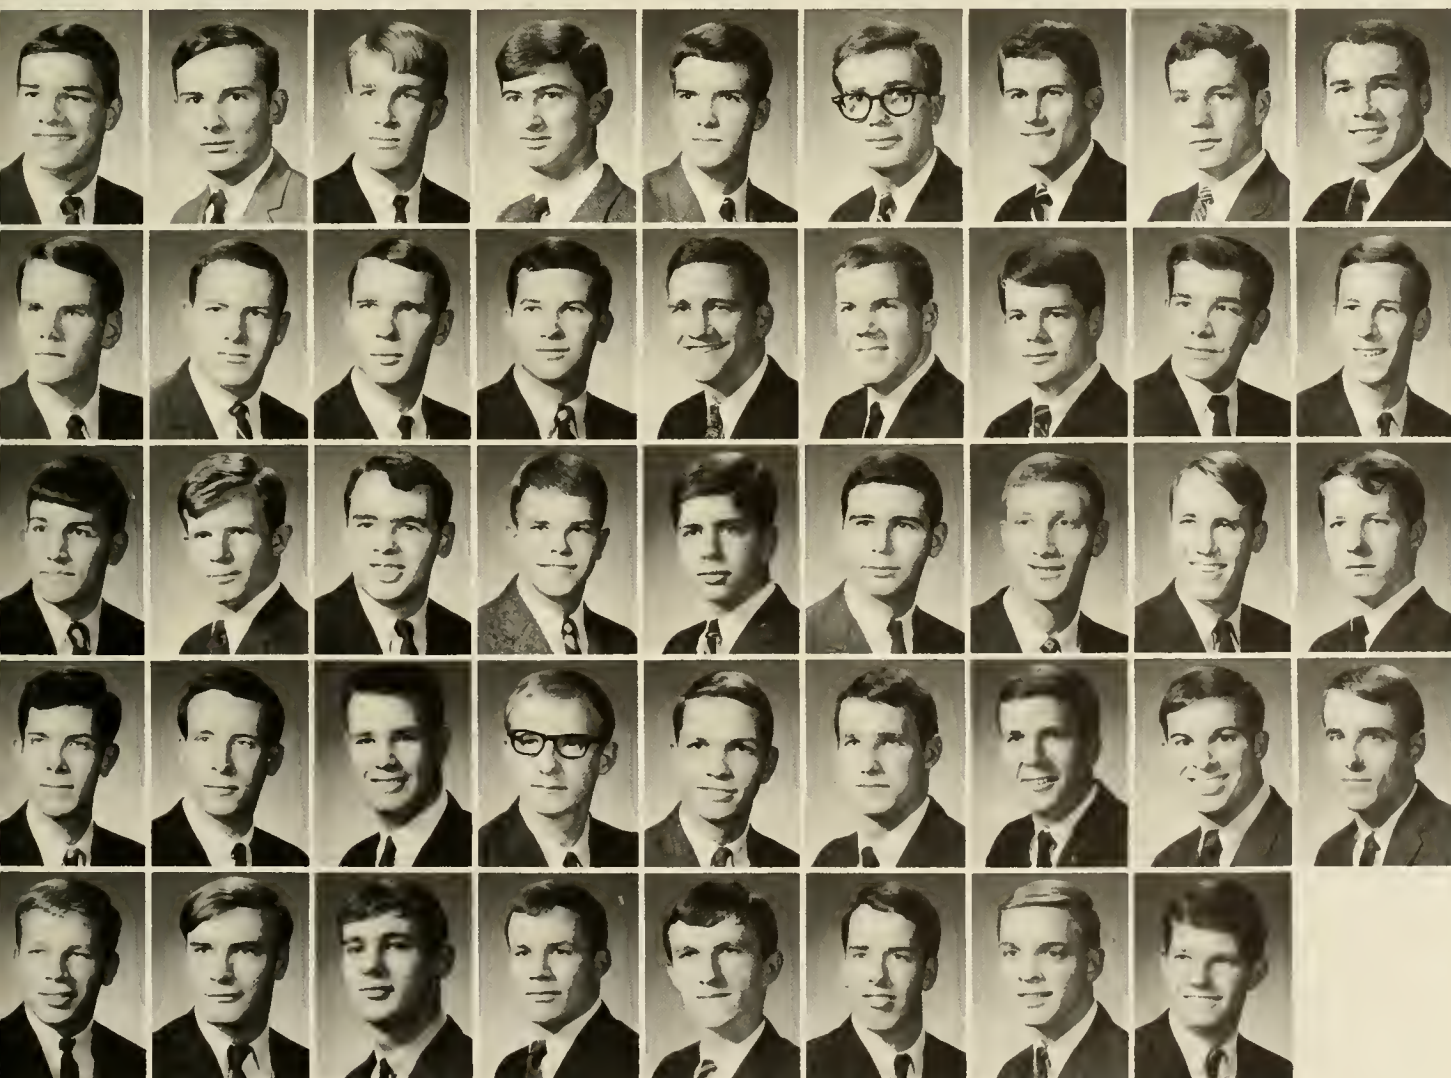

With the clank of Dooright's horseshoes, Lambda Chi's heeded the Manhasset Mauler's call to the books. As Holvei's fun and games social slate began, the Clearwater Good Guys went into action. Flash and Chopper took stud honors. The Moxley Machine led a sustained rush, while the Analyst attended those who felt the strain of learning. Hoy and Uli took in the Stones, and "Childoverseas" Kahl sojourned to Sanford barefoot. Taking the cue from the Homecoming Rocket, the Durham to Florida cross-country auto racing team hit the road. In the section, Cooper and José played Dylan-style while Super-Grit got caught playing quad ball. Bovender and Stiles figured out how to get dates for Joe College, the White Rose Formal, and Beach Weekend, and the year closed with a DU beer party for the BIG TEN.

PHI DELTA THETA

Bolstered by travels to foreign climes and other activities, the Hearty Band returned for another productive year. Buchanan led the fall campaign of sustained negotiations with prospective neophytes and restoration of the battle-worn abode; renovations made the bungalow fit only for a Phi. September found Brash and Winston at the helm of Duke's gridiron excursions; filling out both backfields and anchoring the lines, the Phis with the antics of Boone and Squirrel added strength and color to the Devil's pigskin efforts. Bullet was the high point on the Devil hardwood as the Baron, Joe-Bird, and Koala Bear promised exciting things to come. Miles upheld our social notoriety with the Hairy Buff and Ho-Down, while the Outhouse and Christmas Party gave balance to non-academic endeavors. Second semester brought the diminutive though eminent Starns' administration. With Greek Week, Joe College, and a sunny encampment at Myrtle, the hold of the Good Ship Phi was filled with memories to sustain the Hearty Crew's voyages until next year.

PHI KAPPA PSI

The Phi Psi's returned eager for the semester of the "tight ship" presided over by Biff and Gong. Unfortunately, Biff discovered women and beer and Gong's Gestapo never got going, so the ship went down under heavy fire from the IFC and the Deans.

Affairs of the heart took their toll as Mickey, Gong, Mac, Beater, and Kip bought diamonds; "Fantastic Pig," Rick, Tarry, and Chowder lost pins or lavaliers (not to mention the big move made by Hal).

Schlude's Tool-a-Car and The Truck ruled the renovated Beta lot and Little Joe used Hoss for effective control of the second floor. The great Mexican Rush was culminated by Little Bear's epic card-burning; somehow the Dau and Sebastian sneaked in; and the Blue Dribets triumphed on the intramural courts. New colors reflected in Tuber's glasses brought an increase to the tube team, but Ho Chi Minh was expected to help keep grades up.

"Speed, agility, and that never-give-up attitude."

PHI KAPPA SIGMA

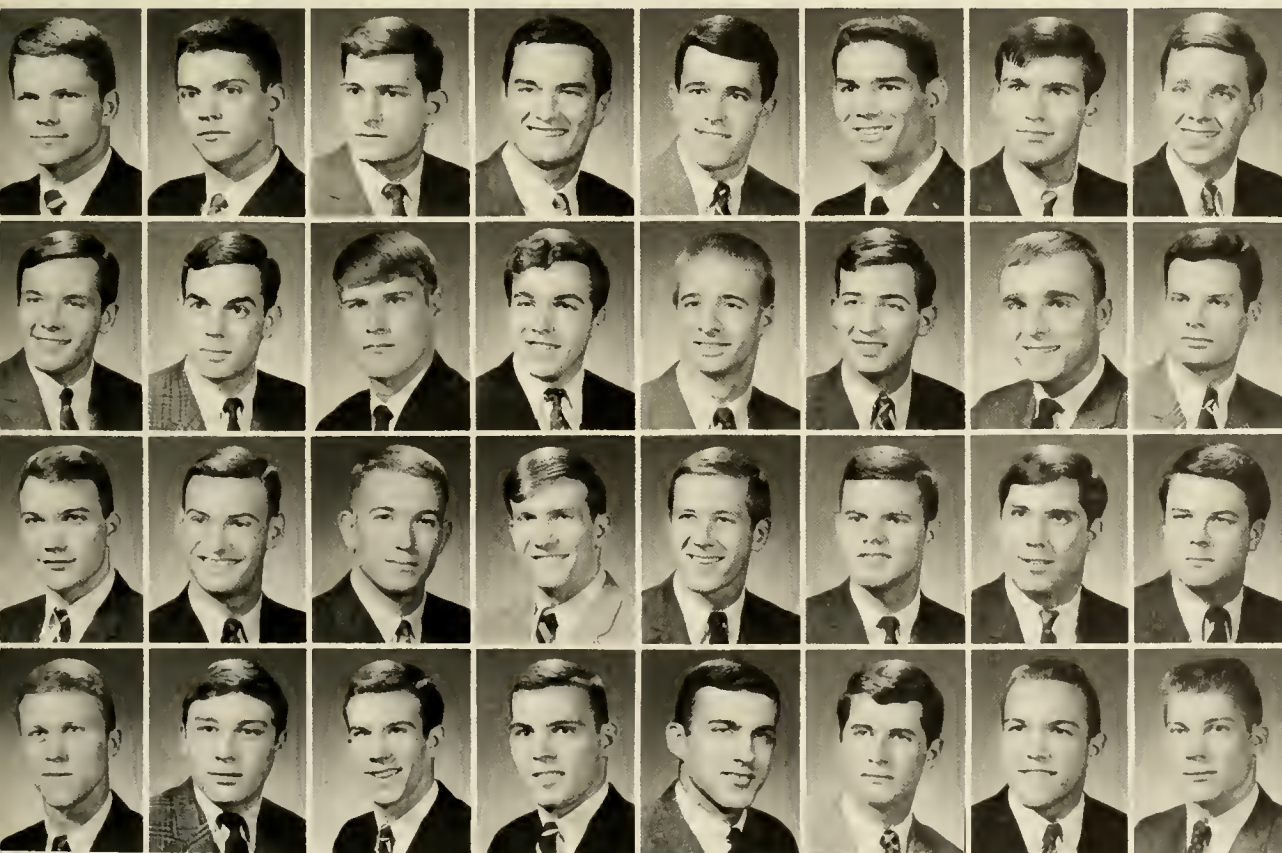

The Phi Kaps reconvened for another look at the C-room disaster. Minus asked for political asylum while Pooh sweated, Toby got a 3.0, Hoija pulled a pit, and all marveled at Dow's Carolina game performance. The Intramural Football Championship highlighted fall, with Slingshot's "passing," Soybean's dexterity, and Kirby's "concrete" defense. Stevie Wonder led the Blue Devils with help from Wendy, Spoonful, and Fang. Other surprises: Burwell's classic choreography, Virgin and the Brain Drain, Tom's battle for Barb, Zero's test of the Olatunji myth, and T's and M-Buck's attempt at manhood. Earl led a successful rush between notes of Flinthill Special, while Randy traded in girls for cigars and Spunky went East. The H. L. Dumpers continued in their tradition, spirited by Meadowlark Kroncke, surpassed only by the Dumpers led by those pear-shaped wonders—Goo-Goo, Droopy, Dee, and Whale. Spring thoughts turned toward the beach and the draft; Robin is gone but it's no loss, for perhaps his space will be filled by Boss.

Skull and crossbones clan in full battle array.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

Yes, Batman—another day, another dastardly crime. Who but you, disguised as GPK Delaney, mild-mannered poker magnet, could solve this one? With the help of your award-winning helper Dorner, you must Handle the Job of uncovering the notorious gang known as “Squatty-body and his Flick Committee,” the man-eating giant,

Gordo (Son of Horr), the slippery Super-Grit and the Red Agent, Houden Von. P. They have put a bad Mark on the Farber Religious Council's record by infiltrating the hierarchy so a Free man can no longer Phil the post. As the mighty bone-crusher Hairy Murray attacks you with a long circus-tent pole, you Gripit Foxily and toss him headlong through the wicked doors of the “Off-Campus Faction” causing “Booth” Baxter to come out swinging his famous “glass fist.” Suddenly good guy Bacchus delivers a coup de grace to the attacker in his own inimitable fashion. As the rest of the nasty criminals attack, you push your SOS button notifying the police chief at the Pederal Fen, Giles, who cannot send his Deputy, Dawg, because he is in the hospital giving blood again. . . . Guess there's No Way, Batman.

“And after you finish this, I want you to empty the garbage; and then . . .”

PI KAPPA PHI

"Wendover Whispering Pines!" said Turbs; "Under the arm, Pitt!" said Al; "Don' worry chile!" said Jones; and "WHEW!" said Dr. P. "Fantastic!" we commented, watching Dunaway on the gridiron, Rah-Rah gaping, and Tex Bluedeviling. "So to speak" was the reply to Bernstein's report that "a good time was had by all" at Whispering Pines. And what could be said but "Mmmm" as Kathy Haberstick was presented as our Rose. "Shower!" said the brotherhood to the host who lost pins. "Baah!" said a blue-horned ram in the section one morn. "How sweet it is!" was Chapman's point of view. "All right!" to good leadership under Wertz and Osmun.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

After the tear-jerking departure of D. W. and the subsequent exposure of the Great Turkey Swindle, the powerful E's gathered forces under the Eminent Bod for another year of distinction. Room 104 was named "Smoggiest Room on Campus" with its one-two punch of post-Charlotte smoke and unlimited Fog. The Homestead Act was touted party of the year, as the Bull starred and the B. H. barred. In scientific research, the burly inhabitants of 203 developed rival theories of quick-death. For history, Belial Boone and our Descendant of Louis XIV managed the first spontaneous ram robbery in the state.

The annual war motif was upheld in the basement, where the mighty E's, using the Boiler Room as strategic headquarters, maintained their campaign to stamp out lizards. An intra-floor battle brought combined forces of Fish-Feeders, Grits, and the Demolition crew to bear on the fortress of 204, manned by a Nose on Wheels. Dubbed as the confrontation of the century: Sid vs. Holly.

SIGMA CHI

Returning to the Animal Quad, triumph was the dominant note; the red and black shrine held the Best Fraternity Award, ninth I.M. trophy, and best Q.P.R. on West. Sunny and Dick led us to greater heights, with Phi Betes Pelt, Pooner, and Head, while Earl, Garbage, Rod, Stump, Luke, and Gutey crushed Carolina. Sumner's Derby Day was amazing, as were Homecoming and Sweetheart. Peter corralled a boss bunch and spring was here with the Beach. So with Randy safeguarding morals, Guy, Bob, Jim, and Herd down campus, and the Tupelo Flash maintaining East relations, we ended another good year with high hopes for the next.

Gamma came on big this year, big enough to establish the "ghetto" in Wannamaker. Under able Frank Huffman, we claimed officers in MSGA, IFC, Student Union, Senior Class, Judicial Board, YMCA, housemasters, and a host of Y-men. Highlights were Kraftie's moon-lighting as Santa Claus—great finish in I.M. football—homecoming gallows—beer blast in the Eno—Z special—Zeta football game—hoe-down and first annual turtle races—elegant White Rose formal—Toni Kline as our sweetheart—rise of the Munchkins—our first movie—fantastic pledge class and their "sit-in" in our chapter room—the rash of pinnings after the pond was drained—torch run from Raleigh—too much to mention. A very big year.

TAU EPSILON PHI

As usual, all year long TEP DID. Stick studied the gospel according to Charlie Brown while Llums acquired a taste for melon; G.B. loved Mary moore and moore, and started making plans, but Schums outdid him. Sly kept on making pit stops, and Soap discovered all-night bowling alleys. The Poker Derby passed unanimously, except for Horse's neigh. The whole problem with Regan (The Eternal Phlame) was flies; naturally, Berkey knows. Barry walked with an ugly list, and Newie had a barb in his side that didn't keep him from typing. Fang ended his one-man normality cult, but ACBD elected Fyng best pledge, and the Dobbs Fairy got a rose for rush. Turtle took Geraldta instead, Reality took his study of Buddhist monks too seriously, and —Man found out he's not worth a fin. We left somebody out, but we can't remember who. And finally, nobody ever did find out just what it is that TEP DOES (except for the small army of frosh who started DOING immediately after rush).

TEP's Pepsi (?) generation.

THETA CHI

Under the gavel of iron-man Lichty, the T-Chi's rolled on to new heights. The intellectuals played bridge and tried to fathom the subtleties of Batman; the engineers drank, but with native intelligence and astute cramming, we held our high grade ranking. Fleck woke up on exec council, Jap pushed on to his 500th win while Knurd made it one in a row, Lurch blitzed main quad in stereo, though the air raid was halted by an IFC counterattack. Rush left us with sweet memories, mono, and top-notch pledges. We came out on top with sororities, splitting the cost and drinking all the beer. The Bahamas blast made it back again, despite Manoose; Beach weekend was unusual as usual. A hard year to top—but we'll try.

ZETA BETA TAU

One again the deep end of Craven Quad was the scene of frivolity and merriment. In spite of the strong-armed leadership of Tricky Dick, mental and moral degeneracy ran rampant in the tower, while Grape was a real "Dad" to Pretty Boy and Harv. Fall semester was marked by numerous parties, the Annual Ugly Man Contest run by Agile and "My Fair Laddy" for the Follies. Leffkowitz ran rush, climaxed by Chinese Open House with the Hot Nuts, as GK introduced the one-ball system. Spring semester brought Mardi Gross skits, Greek Week and the farcical chariot race, Joe College, and the Beach. While Momstein was changed to Batstein, Leigh became Rabinowitz the Boy Rabbi; Marty captained the B-ball team to its first undefeated season, and Joel was undefeated as Sergeant-at-arms. Sid graduated with an MA in speech, Fog decided to be the only Dentist with evening hours, and Harris became the new Ben Casey. The year ended with Dapper still stringing them up, Novick cutting them down, and the Fly on the loose. A vile year for ZBT?—NOT!

Addoms. President Karen Amen and Counselor Carol Garris.

EAST CAMPUS HOUSES

On East Campus, unlike West, living is centered in the dormitory, where a mixture of Greeks, independents, upperclass women, and underclass women live together during their years at Duke. The East Campus dorm is a center of activities which begin with the welcoming of freshmen and include parties, house meetings, skits, and discussions. Each year every dorm elects a house council which handles problems, programs, and suggestions for the house. The council is presided over by the house president and house counselor. The president of each house is a member of the House Presidents Board, which coordinates house meetings, general problems, and plans of all the dorms.

HOUSEMASTERS

The University's housemaster program was established to provide capable resident advisors for the freshmen houses and to help foster a program that includes a serious approach to academic questions as well as social functions.

The job of the housemasters and their assistants includes administration, counseling, and discipline. The housemasters act as advisors both for the personal problems of the freshmen and for the activity programs planned by the house councils.

ASSOCIATION OF INDEPENDENT HOUSES

The Association of Independent Houses facilitates and encourages the activities of the various independent living groups on the Duke campus. Representing the nine separate independent houses, the Association decides what action should be taken in matters involving the independent community and settles disputes among the member groups. Through its work, the Association hopes to foster greater unity among the groups, while at the same time allowing the expression of individual identity.

DORM LIFE

The University makes various provisions to furnish shelter for us—fraternity and independent sections, East dorms, new facilities on West, and experimentation with corridors on East. Whether our neighbors are determined by fraternal bond, common interests, or a shuffle of the IBM cards, we live together and share things to some degree. The Eternal Search for a place to study usually terminates here, and we develop phenomenal powers of concentration (or feign them)—somehow managing a little work between quad-ball games; tube, card, and bull sessions; all-over calls and callers. Dorm life though is not merely a series of interruptions, but a variety of experiences with others who are here for reasons similar to ours. . . .
